Carst (center) of Granite City Steel, representing management. Weis, Bricklayers business manager, and Farrell, Heimkamp Excavating &

Productivity, peace pledge

Robert A. Georgine, president, Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO, was the keynote speaker at a ceremony Wednesday marking the pledge of labor-management cooperation on $100 million in plant construction at Granite City Steel.

The pledge was made under the auspices of IMAGE, a construction industry group comprised of contractors, labor, designers and owners. The group's purpose is to increase development in Southern Illinois through increased productivity and improved labor-management relations in the construction industry. Contractors and labor leaders, as well as Granite City Steel officials and Illinois and Missouri dignitaries, were present at the Callinsville Holiday Inn for the announcement of the cooperation pledge.

"This particular project may prove to the people, as we've done in many jobs in the past, that we can do the job that we have the skilled craftsmen to do the work, and that we can bring the job in on time or earlier with no work stoppages or jurisdictional disputes," said Robert A. Weis, IMAGE co-chairman and business manager of Bricklayers Local 65.

The work to be performed includes

'Early birds' get the gasoline

While getting gasoline the last nine days of the month may be difficult in the Quad-City area, motorists who buy in the morning or are regular customers at certain stations, should have little difficulty obtaining $5 worth or a whole tankful, a survey by the Press-Record yesterday indicated.

Several service stations were closed Wednesday afternoon, either because they were out of gasoline or because they had pumped their quotas for the day, but most operators indicated they planned to reopen bright and early today.

Most of the stations contacted indicated they believe gasoline they have on hand will last through the 30th, but closings early in the day may be anticipated.

The Clark Service station at Nameoki Road and Washington Avenue plans to be open seven days a week, but will close daily at noon, beginning today. Nameoki Standard service at Nameoki and Fehling roads is pumping 2,000 gallons of gasoline a day and then closing, usually around noon to 1 p.m. "We are trying to make do on a 70 percent allocation," an employee explained.

Pontoon Mobil at Pontoon Road and Highway 111 in Pontoon Beach reports an unusually tight squeeze this month because they oversold their allocation last month and Mobil deducted the amount oversold from this month's allocation.

"We're having trouble getting gas down here. We oversold even though we were closed five days last month due to the gas shortage. I only get gas every nine days. We are on a 80 to 85 percent allocation, compared to last month's sales, but no one is keeping us informed of what is going to happen," Jerry Henderson, operator of Pontoon Mobil, said.

The major shortage is of unleaded gas, despite the price, which jumped two cents Monday morning and now sells for 94.9 cents a gallon at Henderson's station.

The Sonic self-service station, 1817 Madison Ave., raised its price Wednesday from 88.9 to 97.9 cents per gallon for regular gas.

Some stations are putting a $5 limit

dollar coin. The new coin is round, but has an eleven-sided geometric shape inscribed at the perimeter. The reverse of the new coin features an eagle with wings spread. This is the first comparison photo of the new coin with other denominations of U.S. coinage. The new coin will go into circulation on July 2. Arrangements for the photo courtesy were made by the First National Bank in Madison. The Eisenhower dollar has been phased out of production.

Public to be heard on utility tax

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The 19th Street overpass, and a proposed utility tax to help pay for it, came one step closer to reality Tuesday night as the Granite City Council went on record as favoring the tax, despite organized opposition from local industries.

An ordinance establishing specifics of the proposed utility tax now will be prepared which must be acted upon by the council in a future meeting.

The city plans to sell $1.3 million in general obligation bonds to complete the $5.2 million needed to build an overpass. The utility tax would repay the bonds over a five or 10-year period. A plan to use funds from the police and firemen's pension fund and repay those funds through utility taxes has been dropped, since the general obligation bonds have a lower interest rate than the pension funds currently earn invested elsewhere.

Mayor Paul Schuler admitted the proposal for a one percent tax on all gas and electric bills, with a $100 deductible clause to exempt most householders, has not been well thought out yet, primarily because planners have not had access to power company records to determine how much money the utility tax would raise.

He said he plans to meet with representatives of industry and business to discuss the proposed tax and will listen to input from the citizens at a public hearing at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 26, in the council chambers of city hall.

While Sebuler initially estimated the tax would raise $500,000 per year, citywide—to pay off bonds for the overpass, Granite City Steel estimates the tax will cost that company alone more than $500,000 per year.

"While not questioning the desirability of the overpass, we believe this is the wrong way to go about it," the four largest industries in the city told the council in a prepared statement read by Attorney Leo Konzen.

Konzen spoke on behalf of the Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corp., A.O. Smith Corp., American Steel Foundries and the Nestle Co., which represent about 10,000 employees in the city and pay a substantial part of the community's total tax bill, he said.

"The city of Granite City was badly hurt some years ago by the closing of several of our largest employers, including General Steel's Casting Division and Union Starch. Fortunately, we have been able to recover from the economic losses of that period. Our major industries have stabilized and are planning to expand," the statement read.

It said Granite City industries are able to compete with industries in "the so-called Sun Belt states" and overseas, because of excellent rail, highway and water resources, as well as its access to coal and iron ore.

"The proposed energy tax could change a now favorable environment. We question the wisdom of financing any project by turning to a special tax which, whatever else, will clearly saddle our existing industries with a cost their competitors do not have to bear and will handicap efforts to bring new plants and new jobs to this community," the statement concluded.

Texts of utility tax statements on Page 11.

Mayor Schuler said the utility tax proposal was made by the ad-hoc council committee on the overpass which met last week. "After considering several alternative methods of financing the $1.3 million we still need to complete the overpass, only two were found practical—one being to increase the property tax levy."

"The committee was unanimous in the feeling that a property tax increase would place an extremely large tax burden on the taxpayers of the city."

"We felt a combination of general obligation bonds and an energy conservation tax of one percent, or in that neighborhood, for the repayment of the bonds, should be the recommendation of the committee with a $100 deductible for each household," Schuler said.

"We need $1.3 million and I don't think there is any question that overpass is a very, very essential need for all of the city," the mayor stated.

He cited trains blocking ambulances and other emergency vehicles as one need for an overpass. "We have been talking about this for six years and have exhausted nearly every means of raising funds. Almost $4 million has

Capture robber College OK'd

Douglas Reinhardt, 21, of 31 Moorland Drive, Mitchell, was arrested about 2 a.m. Tuesday in Breese, Ill., and was charged with the robbery about 10 hours earlier of the Parkside Food Shop, Maryville Road and O'Hare Ave.

His bond is set at $50,000 and he was brought from the Clinton County Jail to Granite City Tuesday.

A clerk at the confectionary and food shop told police a young man entered while several customers were in the store about 4:10 p.m. Monday and he went to the rear of the store until the customers had left.

He then approached the counter, leaned over and told the young girl who was at the cash register, "Give me your money. Someone is outside the window with a gun," she related.

When she asked him if he was joking, he stated, "Hurry, give me your money or I'll hurt a customer. Hurry, hurry."

By a 7-0 vote Tuesday night, the Belleville Area College board formally approved establishment of a daytime college instructional center at Washington School on West 20th Street in Granite City.

Ratification is expected at the June 26 Granite City School Board meeting, and the center will open in August. Its permanence will depend on the extent to which area residents utilize the building for credit courses and non-credit classes.

The BAC board decided to continue its search for a nursing education program coordinator. Among those still under consideration is Betty J. Thompson, who was recommended for the post.

Board Chairman Robert Dintelmann said he believes she is qualified but Trustee Curt Eckert called for a more extensive search before a decision is made. There are seven applicants.

SOYBEAN LINEUP. It's not a line at a local gasoline station, but it was just as slow Tuesday afternoon as drivers wait to unload tons of soybeans at the Archer Daniels Midland grain processing elevator. Current fluctuations in soybean prices and a better-than-normal price at the ADM processing plant caused several traffic tieups along Pontoon Road west of Cargill Road. The going rate of $7.90 per bushel of soybeans caused a 100 percent rise in the plant's normal daily tonnage.

Bible school at W. 22nd Baptist

Vacation Bible school will begin Sunday and continue through Sunday, July 1, at West 22nd Street Baptist Church, 2800 W. 22nd St., the Rev. LaVerne Arledge, pastor, said today.

The program is geared to children and young people, 2 to 17 years, and all are welcome to attend, Gordon Whitford, Sunday school superintendent, said.

On Sunday, June 24 and July 1, the school hours will be 9:30 a.m. until 12 noon, and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The class sessions on Monday through Saturday, June 25 through June 30, will be from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Because of the special vacation program, there will not be regular Sunday school classes this week and next for children up to 17 years old, Whitford said.

Those who prefer to attend Sunday school have been invited to the Second Baptist Church, 2100 Illinois Ave., or Bethesda Baptist Church, 3035 Nameoki Drive. Classes start at 9:30 a.m. at both churches.

LOOT WAREHOUSE

An inventory is being conducted to determine what was stolen during a burglary at the Young Metal Products warehouse at 2889 Highway Three, discovered Monday. Bolts holding a piece of metal siding in place were removed to gain entry through the wall. The garage door then was believed to have been opened to remove numerous items. The company is in the process of moving and closing the plant here permanently, police were told.

Illinois gasoline now 2nd costliest; taxes blamed

Illinois' average gasoline prices are the second highest in the nation, but taxes — not excessive refiner orderer profits — are responsible, in the opinion of Paul Collier, vice president of Amoco Oil Company's central region.

The "Fuel Gauge Report," a publication of the American Automobile Association, shows that California's gasoline prices have edged out Illinois. However, in two recent weeks, Illinois' prices have headed the list.

"Taxes, particularly those levied in the Chicago area, account for Illinois' high ranking," Collier said. "In fact, Chicago motorists pay up to nine cents more in taxes than the national average."

In the six-county Chicago metropolitan area, motorists pay 19 to 20 cents in taxes — based on an 87.8-cent gallon of full-service regular gasoline — while less than two cents a gallon goes to Amoco in the form of after-tax profit, he contended. The federal government collects four cents, the state 7.5 cents, and Cook County one cent.

Also, there are a five percent Regional Transportation Authority tax and a five percent state sales tax, which add up to another 7.3 cents a gallon, Collier said.

Springfield's pump prices exclude the RTA and county taxes, so capital area motorists pay 15.2 cents in taxes, based on an 86.9-cent gallon, he added.

"By contrast, the tax rates in neighboring states are significantly lower. Wisconsin, for example, has no city gasoline taxes.

Therefore, Milwaukee motorists pay only 11 cents federal and state taxes, based on an 82.9-cent gallon. The same is true in Madison, Wis., where the average pump price is 84.5 cents a gallon.

"On a broader scale," Collier said, "higher crude oil costs and the impact of inflation and the impact of transportation also contribute to rising gasoline prices."

"In fact, the cost of crude oil accounts for nearly half (36.6 cents) of the pump price of gasoline."

"Unfortunately, the U.S. is importing more and more crude currently almost 50 percent — at higher and higher prices."

"The U.S. is now twice as dependent on the Arab countries for oil as it was during the 1973 embargo, making it more vulnerable to price increases and supply cutoffs."

"In the meantime, the petroleum industry, like other industries today, also must cope with inflation. Refining, marketing and transportation costs contribute 15.8 cents to the per-gallon price motorists pay in Chicago. Corporate income taxes contribute about two cents."

"Finally, the dealer's margin, which is controlled with few exceptions by the federal government, accounts for 12.2 cents per gallon on the average."

10-day jail term

Monroe S. Morris, 22, of 2450 Iowa St., has been sentenced to serve one year of probation and 10 days in the Madison County Jail after pleading guilty to battery.

He allegedly wielded a baseball bat and confronted employees at the Illinois Department of Public Aid, 16 Nameoki Village Shopping Center, March 20, and then attacked two police officers when they arrived at the scene, causing minor injuries to them. The battery charge was reduced from aggravated battery.

Associate Judge P.J. O'Neill pronounced sentence.

make the mess less.

There have to be good reasons why more in-sink-erator disposers are sold and installed than any other make.

Our grinding ring, for example, is the strongest made. It's the core of our disposers, along with our own in-made electric motors.

Then we add the extra things. A tough polycarbonate shield protects against interior corrosion. Automatic reversing action extends the life of the grinding elements.

So ask for in-sink-erator next time. To make your mess less. We make our disposers do more.

POSTS CASH BOND

Mikel Ray Brown, 27, of 427 Broadway, Venice, was arrested at Sixth Street and Madison Avenue, Madison, at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday on a warrant charging him with resisting a peace officer. He was released after posting $150 cash bond at 8:53 p.m. the same day.

Bartender is charged with reckless conduct

Lewis J. Phillips, 29, of 2122 Marshall Ave., a bartender at Stieb's Tavern, 2422 Nameoki Road, was arrested early Wednesday at the tavern and was charged with reckless conduct, discharging a firearm in the city limits, criminal damage to property and not having a firearm owner's identification card.

It is alleged Phillips was "testing" a .45-caliber pistol he had just repaired and he fired it several times into the front wall of the tavern at 3:40 a.m. Wednesday.

Bullets passed through the front wall, under the window, and one crossed Nameoki Road and smashed the front glass at the apartment of Debera Johnson, 905 Kirkpatrick Homes. The occupant, who was asleep on the couch, was struck by flying glass, but was not seriously injured. Police found a bullet hole in the window shade and drapes. It appeared the bullet came from the vicinity of the tavern, so officers checked the parking lot for cartridges.

They noticed several bullet holes in the front of the tavern and looked in to see two men inside. They knocked down the door and were admitted.

They questioned the two men and searched the bar area, finding a pistol inside the motor compartment of a cooler and finding six spent cartridges and one live bullet in a trash can. Phillips said he was just trying out the gun after repairing it.

Mrs. JoAnn Clutts, 27, dies in New Orleans

Mrs. JoAnn Paye Clutts (Dawson-Turrentine), 27, of 2133 Ohio Ave., died in New Orleans, La., about 1 a.m. Monday and is to be buried here this weekend.

According to New Orleans officials, Mrs. Clutts died in the central lockup of the New Orleans Parish police where she was being held on an Alabama warrant alleging grand larceny.

A spokesman for the Baldwin County Sheriff's Department in Bay Minette, Ala., alleged Mrs. Clutts had been employed as a maid or nurse's aide in a private home in Spanish Fort, Ala., for about two weeks. When the family went on vacation, she allegedly took about $1,500 worth of jewelry from the home and boarded a bus for New Orleans.

Investigators discovered she had boarded a bus and they alerted New Orleans police, who treated her as she got off the bus there, the spokesman said.

She was being held at the central lockup awaiting extradition to Alabama when she became ill and lost consciousness, it was reported. An emergency vehicle was summoned and she was given oxygen while she was enroute, but she was dead when the ambulance arrived, officials said.

An autopsy was performed Tuesday and indicated some kind of foreign substance in the body had caused congestion in her lungs and upper body and dilated the heart.

She is survived by two daughters, Miss Jessica Turrentine in Ohio and Miss April Dawn Peterson of Granite City; two sons, Kevin Wayne Peterson and Sean Christopher Peterson, both of Granite City; five sisters, Sherilyn Longo, Kathleen Bloodworth and Mary Hoskins, all of Granite City; Mrs. Harold (Angela) Pierson of Virden, Ill., and Mrs. Randy (Judy Kaye) McClung of Inker, Mich.; two brothers, Robert and Robin Clutts, both of Granite City; her mother, Mrs. Grace Peterson of Granite City, and her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. George Irwin Clutts of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Funeral arrangements may be found in today's obituary column.

Sludge fee $5,000 month

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record

An additional payment of $5,000 per month-a total of $60,000 for the current fiscal year-for disposal of sludge from Granite City's sewage treatment plant was authorized by the City Council Tuesday night by a 12 to 1 vote.

The payment will be added to the garbage collection contract now held by Milam-East Division of SCA Services for the additional operational costs resulting from the city's use of the Chain of Rocks landfill operated by SCA Services.

The $5,000 monthly payment was authorized on a motion by Alderman Paul R. Bowler of the Seventh Ward, chairman of the council's finance committee, following an hour-long meeting between members of the finance and sanitation committees with Kenneth Hartbarger, regional director of SCA Services.

Bowler told the aldermen that he believed the additional funding was a "very satisfactory" arrangement for the city since cost figures provided by Hartbarger showed overtime costs of operating the landfill from 5 to 8 p.m. daily to permit disposition of treatment plant sludge in the landfill is costing the landfill operators about $70,000 a year. "This does not include the cost of dirt for covering the sludge, the operation of heavy equipment and other items," Bowler said, noting, "I think it is fair to estimate the cost is about $93,000 a year over and above our current contract arrangement."

While a majority of the aldermen agreed some form of financial relief should be given the firm, no mention was made during Tuesday night's meeting concerning an earlier offer by Hartbarger to renew the garbage contract when it expires next year at the present cost level plus 5 percent per year over the period of three years.

Bowler, however, has said he does not approve of a renewal under the present arrangement, but believes the "only ethical approach" to a new contract next year is by sealed bids. One alderman commented Tuesday night that the issue of a new contract "is still a year away."

The request for financial relief in handling the sludge disposal at the firm's Chain of Rocks landfill originated in January in a letter to the council by Hartbarger in which he noted that the firm originally had agreed to handle the sludge disposal "for a couple of months" without charge, but that the operation has become 24 months and has been running into overtime operations at the landfill.

The problem stems from delivery of sludge from the treatment plant to the landfill during overtime hours of 5 to 8 p.m. Everett Hubbard, acting superintendent at the treatment plant, told the aldermen that it is impossible to remove all of the solids from the regular 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. working period.

Two weeks ago, Hartbarger appeared before the council and explained the problem, noting that the firm is losing about $5,000 a month in handling the sludge disposal.

It became necessary to haul sludge from the plant to the landfill in 1977 when incinerators at the treatment plant failed to burn the sludge without using large quantities of fuel oil at a cost which city officials maintained were prohibitive.

The motion to grant the $5,000 monthly payment brought objections from Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward who told the aldermen:

"I don't know why the council has changed its mind about this. Everyone said before we would not pay any more money under this contract. Now everyone is for it. I am against giving away $60,000."

Douglas said he believed every effort should be made to get the sludge from the plant to the landfill during regular working hours.

Hubbard told Douglas, "I wish you would come down and show me how to do it."

Glen Sprankle, chairman of the council's pollution planning committee, suggested that he be given time to "see if we can't work out something."

Other aldermen agreed generally that the firm was entitled to some additional payment. Bowler, in response to a question, said the firm had not asked for any retroactive funds, but only for the period in the remainder of the contract, starting July 1.

On a roll call vote, Douglas cast the only negative vote. Alderman Earl Baker was absent. Those voting in favor were Aldermen Sam Whitmer, Bowler, Margaret Nomm, Lloyd Bailey, Michael Modrusic, Mac Warfield, Paul Fisk, Everett Morlen, Sprankle, Fred Schuman Jr., Roy Poulos and Warren Decatur.

Robbery

She gave the robber about $143 in bills from the cash register and the young man ran out to the front parking lot.

Another employee, who had witnessed the incident from the rear office area ran out after the robber and chased him to a white over yellow car which the robber entered, police were told.

When the employee grabbed the driver's door handle, the robber locked the door and sped away, squealing tires, south on Maryville Road, it was related.

The employee gave officers the license number of the car which was registered to a woman. Officers contacted the woman and asked her to have her boy friend contact Granite City police detectives for questioning.

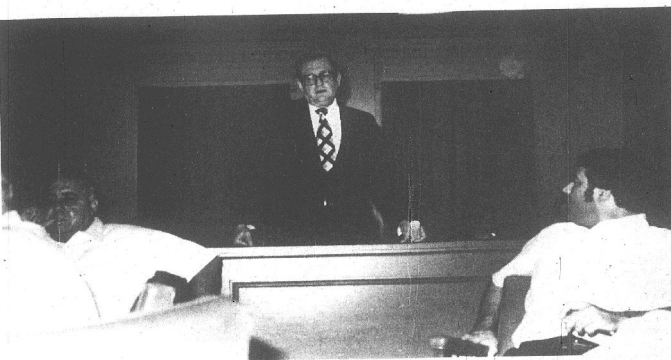

Reinhardt called police on the telephone about 5:40 p.m. and was questioned about the incident, officers said.

At 1 a.m. Tuesday, Circuit Judge William Beatty signed a warrant for Reinhardt's arrest on a robbery charge and Detectives Kip Pomeroy and Sgt. Don Knight went to Breese to add authorities there in arresting him. He was arrested without incident.

Reinhardt is on probation from a Feb. 18 incident at Mr. Donut, 3134 Nameoki Road, in which he allegedly held his hands in his pocket, asked for money and took $94 in cash from an employee, Linda Kerr, who was alone in the store.

The Madison County state's attorney's office ruled in that case the crime was not a robbery, since there was no implied threat voiced and would authorize only a charge of theft under $150, a misdemeanor.

Reinhardt pleaded guilty to the theft charge and was given one year of probation and ordered to pay $40 in court costs.

REPRESENTING INDUSTRY.

Leo Konzen, Granite City attorney representing four major Granite City industries, outlines to the City Council Tuesday night the objections of those industries to a proposal to issue general obligation bonds in the amount of $1.3 million to help pay for proposed downtown overpass. Speaking for Granite City Steel, A. O. Smith, American Steel Foundries and Nestle, Inc., Konzen told council members there were no objections to the overpass project, but that methods other than an energy tax should be devised to finance it.

Collide on Madison Ave.

Three young men were injured when the cars of James Taylor, 18, of 2922 Cayuga St., and David Horton, 19, of 2512 Northbridge, collided at 19th Street and Madison Avenue at 12:50 a.m. Wednesday.

Witnesses said Taylor's auto stopped on 19th Street for the stop sign, and then turned left onto Madison Avenue as Horton's auto was headed southwest on Madison Avenue. Taylor was issued a ticket alleging failure to yield the right-of-way.

Both drivers and John Stewart, 18, of 2615 Cayuga St., a passenger in Taylor's car, were taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

Taylor, who had been unconscious for a period, was admitted for observation with a head injury and cuts to his forehead and right temple. He was listed in fair condition.

Horton was admitted for a broken left arm, a cut to his nose, abrasions and bruises to his left hip and a bump to his head. Stewart suffered pain to his jaw, but was released after X-rays were taken.

MAKING HIS POINT. Granite City Alderman Paul R. Bowler of the Seventh Ward uses chart Tuesday night to explain his objections to a proposed 1 percent utility tax to finance remaining costs of the downtown overpass project. Bowler was the only council member to vote against a motion approving the utility tax concept.

G. W. Humphrey of National Steel dies; Hanna chairman

Gilbert W. Humphrey, 62, chairman of The Hanna Mining Company, died last week at community Hospital, Carmel, Calif. He had been on the West Coast on business and suffering from abdominal pain, after having played golf in the morning. He died Sunday.

An internationally-recognized business leader, he had been associated with Hanna since 1948. He was elected a vice president and director of The M.A. Hanna Co. in 1953 and was chairman of the board when M.A. Hanna was liquidated in 1966.

Mr. Humphrey was for many years closely identified with National Steel Corporation, serving as a director of the company and chairman of the executive committee. He also was a member of National Steel's personnel and compensation committee. Granite City Steel is the local division of National Steel.

At the time of his death, he was a director of Federated Department Stores, General Reinsurance Corp., Hamilton Brothers Petroleum Co., Massey-Ferguson Ltd., Royal City Bank of Cleveland, St. John d'el Rey Mining Co., Scott Paper Co. and Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada.

He served for more than 20 years as a director of the General Electric Co., from which he retired in 1976, and was a director of Texaco, Inc. from 1958 to 1976.

He was a trustee of the Tax Foundation, a member of the policy committee of the Business Roundtable, and member of the Business Council.

He was a member of the President's Task Force on Business Taxation, and was a former trustee of the Committee for Economic Development and the Greater Cleveland Growth Association.

Mr. Humphrey was actively interested in University Hospitals of Cleveland, where he had served as a trustee for 25 years and was vice-chairman of the board at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Rockefeller University Council and a member of the advisory council of Opportunities, Inc.

Earlier, he had been a trustee of the Cleveland Community Chest, an overseer of Case Western Reserve University, a Yale alumni board member, a trustee of Hotchkiss School, and a member of the capital funds committee of the United Negro College Fund. Mr. Humphrey was born in Saginaw, Mich., and was reared in Cleveland, where his father, George M. Humphrey, was president of The M.A. Hanna Co. for many years prior to his appointment as secretary of the Treasury in the administration of President Eisenhower. The late senior Mr. Humphrey at one time also was one of the founders and a chairman of National Steel Corp.

Gilbert Humphrey was a graduate of Hotchkiss School, Yale University and Yale Law School. While an undergraduate at Yale, he starred in football and was captain of the varsity hockey team.

After three years in the U.S. Navy during World War II, he returned to Cleveland, where he engaged in the private practice of law from 1946 to 1948 with the firm of Jones, Day, Reavis and Pogue.

He was married in 1939 to the former Louise Ireland, who survives, as does his mother, Mrs. George M. Humphrey.

He was the father of three children, George M. Humphrey II, a Hanna Mining vice-president, Margaret Humphrey Dunlap, and Gilbert Watts Humphrey Jr., president of the Midwest Steel Division of National Steel.

There are seven grandchildren. Two sisters, Pamela Humphrey Firman and Carol Humphrey Butler, also survive.

Watts Humphrey is a former Granite City Steel executive.

Funeral services will be private. The family suggests that those who wish may make a contribution in Mr. Humphrey's name to the charity of their choice.

Clergymen confer on bereavement

Quad-City clergymen were hosted this month at Engelbert Hall by Randall Irwin of the Irwin Chapel for Funerals. Speaking at the conference was Robert W. Ninker, executive director of the Illinois Funeral Directors Association.

Primary purpose of the seminar was to promote communication between clergy and funeral directors, especially in counseling bereaved families.

A new film, "The Christian Funeral...A Time for Sharing," presented a dialogue among three clergymen on the strength of a Christian funeral.

Ninker elaborated further on the need for clergy and funeral directors to counsel after the funeral service, since many members of the family and friends depart with a sense of loss.

Clergy, church members, friends, etc., can help alleviate these feelings, it was asserted. There is a correlation between a grief-stricken individual and susceptibility to illness and disease, the gathering was told.

The Rev. Samuel Boda, in an appreciation reply, remarked, "I personally profited especially from Mr. Ninker's closing section, which he based on the book, The Broken Heart."

"We have a far greater obligation to those in loneliness and grief than we ever might have realized," His remarks will add a deeper dimension to our ministry to the bereaved. We shall endeavor to involve more and more people in such a ministry of comfort and love."

A luncheon was served at the conclusion of the conference. Those who attended were:

The Reverends Dennis Rutledge, Central Christian Church; Marvin Peters, First Baptist Church; Carl Watkins, Second Baptist; Ray Johnson, Third Baptist; David Maxton, First Presbyterian; Samuel Boda, St. John Lutheran; William

Church Women United inspect blood center

Members of Church Women United of the Quad-Cities toured the Missouri-Illinois American Red Cross Blood Center on Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, Wednesday.

The group was escorted through the center and viewed the laboratory procedures and several new processes now being used to separate platelets, among other blood derivatives.

They also inspected the blood donor area and storage facilities.

The women gained firsthand knowledge why blood donor drives held in the Quad-City area are so important to the production of platelets at the center.

Blood donations intended for platelet extraction must be processed at the center within a short period of time. Therefore, donations received any distance from the center are useless in platelet production.

Platelets are vital to victims of leukemia and are needed by patients undergoing chemotherapy for cancer, a process that destroys platelets produced naturally inside the body.

Mrs. Marion Pierson, CWU president, said the women's group will sponsor its annual summer blood drive Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 10 through July 12.

Mrs. JoAnn Barnett, who is serving as blood campaign chairman, said it is extremely important the goal of 320 units of blood is met this summer.

"We are asking everyone who cannot give blood to think of themselves as recruiters among family and friends who can give," she said.

Red Cross steps up training in first aid, resuscitation

Volunteer first aid instructors of the Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross have stepped up its program of teaching cardiac pulmonary resuscitation and multimedia first aid classes, the chapter's board of directors were told in a meeting at Granite City Bank.

Maxine Duniphan, chairman of first aid instruction in the Tri-City Chapter, told the board that instructors have been particularly busy in a series of programs that have expanded the chapter's training at various levels.

Charles Partmley and Dick Mizell have begun training employees of Granite City Steel in CPR and Dave Sanders of Mitchell is coordinating first aid for Red Cross at the SUE Mississippi River Festival, she said.

The local Red Cross chapter is providing volunteers for first aid treatment of minor injuries at MRF. In addition, training has begun for CPR training for federal employees. Five hundred persons have signed up for this training.

Mrs. Duniphan announced that multimedia first aid has been taught at Central Hardware for employees, and for employees of the Detention Center in Edwardsville, as well as to senior citizens in Granite City under the Belleville Area College Program.

Swimming classes are being offered again at Wilson Park and other areas and the instruction for teaching swimming to the physically handicapped will begin July 9 at the private swimming pool of Roger Bowler on Mockingbird Lane.

Applications still are being accepted for this class. The blood program report indicated there are several blood visits scheduled in the area in the next few weeks.

On July 10, 11 and 12, Church Women United will sponsor blood visits at St. Margaret Mary Church in Granite City and St. Mary's Church in Madison.

Anyone wishing further information may call the local chapter at 452-7184. St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City will have a bloodmobile visit Friday, July 13, and the Granite City Army Installation will have a blood drive on Aug. 20, the meeting was told.

James Whitt announced to the Red Cross directors that final arrangements are being made for the annual meeting to be held at the Sunset Hills Country Club on July 6. The public is invited to attend and may call the chapter for further information.

Henry Karandjeff presented the nominating committee's recommendation for board members to be elected at the annual meeting.

Those attending the meeting were: Jack Mulach, James Whitt, Maxine Duniphan, Fred Cunningham, Henry Karandjeff, Laveada Knobe, William Bright, Frankie Griggs, Dennis Gulley, Larry Lockhart, David Partmley, Norton Henke, Ted Todorff, Roger Franck, Dr. Donald Coleman, Clyde Myers and Lois Winter.

Hold two in assault

Mitch Donihann, 21, and Martin E. Glaspe Jr., 18, both of Granite City, were being held Monday in the Madison County Jail under bonds of $7,500 each on a charge of aggravated assault.

It is alleged they picked up a man in St. Louis about 10:30 p.m. Thursday in St. Louis and they drove to several taverns, and finally drove over a toll bridge to Illinois. Once in this state, one of the men displayed a six to seven-inch knife, put it to the victim's side and ordered him to undress, authorities were told.

The victim refused to comply with requests for sexual favors and about 12:45 a.m. Friday, the pair let the nude victim out in the 2100 block of Harrison Avenue, East Madison, and left in an old gray Chevrolet, it was alleged.

He went to a house on that block and called sheriff's deputies. He said his wallet, containing about $12, was in his clothing, which was taken.

A description of the auto used was broadcast to area police agencies and shortly after 1 a.m. Friday, Granite City police saw an old gray Chevrolet in the alley between the 1900 blocks of Cleveland Boulevard and Benton Street with two men in it.

A knife allegedly was found on the front seat and the two were arrested for deputies.

GC seniors at Saint Louis U.

Tamara Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barnes, Rural Route One, Box 1340H, is among 115 high school senior girls participating this week in a Career Opportunities in Business for Women program at St. Louis University.

Miss Barnes is attending the week-long program with Carolyn Jean Ozanich and Sharon Kay Werner. All three will be seniors this fall at Granite City High School South.

Students taking part were selected on the basis of academic qualifications, involvement in extracurricular activities and leadership potential.

The program is sponsored by the St. Louis University School of Business and Administration in conjunction with the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business and Monsanto Company.

VANDALISM
Mrs. Cora Reddies, 83 Weaver St., Venice, called police when she heard several firecrackers going off near her home at 4:30 a.m. Sunday. She reportedly saw four men running toward Lee Wright Homes. She then discovered a small hole in a window apparently made from an air rifle pellet.

Ruth Behrens, director of the Center for Health Promotion of the Hospital Association of Metropolitan St. Louis, the St. Louis Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans, the Missouri Statewide Coalition on Health Education, and the HSA.

The Center for Health Promotion, which Ruth Behrens directs, was begun in 1978 to help and encourage hospitals throughout the country to become more involved in patient education, community health education and employee health programs; and also to work at a national level with other organizations, in the public and private sector, fostering increased awareness about health promotion and illness prevention.

The General Assembly business meeting following the conference will include a discussion of new HSA policies for increased citizen involvement at a local level, and of elections to the HSA governing board which will take place in October.

All area residents over 18 years are eligible, upon application, to join the HSA General Assembly.

Each year, General Assembly members elect from among their members 16 persons to the voluntary governing board of the HSA, which is the official health planning and health resource development agency for the nine-county St. Louis metropolitan region (St. Louis, Franklin, Jefferson and St. Charles counties and St. Louis City in Missouri, and St. Clair, Clinton, Monroe and Madison counties in Illinois).

In each of these counties, citizens also have an opportunity to work with the HSA staff in addressing health problems in their county that have been identified in the HSA's regional health plans.

For further information on the conference or the Health Systems agency, Quad-Cities may contact Larry Matheis, HSA senior community development associate, at (314) 241-5810, ext. 602.

Worker comp premiums in Illinois among highest

"For nearly four years, Illinois employers have paid among the highest worker compensation premiums of the 50 states."

"Because of what some term unreasonably high costs, many Illinois-based jobs have been lost to other states as business and industry have sought to escape from the financial burden."

Because of the massive job exodus—estimated to be as high as 149,000—Illinois lawmakers are now looking at ways to improve the state's worker's compensation system.

That was the message given area industries when Rob Christie spoke before a breakfast meeting of the Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association's Legislative Affairs Committee at the Lewis & Clark Restaurant, East Alton. Christie, 25, is the staff member for the Republican leadership on the State Senate's Labor and Commerce Committee.

"Worker's comp. is a very real problem here in Illinois," according to Christie. In fact, "many member of the Republican reason why we in this state are witnessing a real decline in the relative business climate," Christie said.

Christie indicated that the problem began in 1975 when the Democrat-controlled legislature enacted sweeping changes in the worker's compensation laws. According to Christie, "while some of these changes were warranted, a great many of them just simply went too far, and as a result put Illinois in the unenviable position of having the highest worker's compensation costs of any of the 50 states."

The Republican leadership in the house and senate realize the very serious ramifications of this issue," Christie noted, "and they are equally serious to do all that they can to bring about major reforms."

"I have personally spoken with businessmen, both small and large, who have told me of their own experiences since 1975. In some cases, these employers have witnessed their worker comp. costs rise by as much as several hundred percent within a single given year," Christie stated.

"Too often I have sat in committee only to hear people decry the insurance industry as being the real worker comp. culprits. But this simplistic approach does not take into account the fact that many of our state's employers are self-insured, and hence are not using coverage offered them by conventional insurance carriers. Yet these selfinsured companies are experiencing the same staggering rise in their annual worker comp. costs."

Following his opening remarks, Christie was asked if he attributed the rising costs to inequitable benefits and poor administration. "In a way, both of these situations do exist today. But they are not the only problems we face. For example, some doctors and attorneys deal exclusively with worker comp. cases, since they can realize a very substantial income due to the statutory language enacted back in 1975."

Music will be provided by Joey James and his orchestra.

The speaker for the evening will be Harry Fender, St. Louis radio personality. Fender was a star of the Ziegfeld Follies for five years and appeared in many top Broadway productions with such stars as Eddie Cantor, Milton Berle, Ed Wynn and George Jessel.

He walked out on the starring role in the original production of Show Boat and moved to St. Louis to become a probationary patrolman with the St. Louis Police Department.

He rose from the ranks and became head of the gambling squad. Later he served in the secret service division as a special agent for former Missouri Governor Lloyd Stark. He retired from the department in 1945 and resumed a career in radio and TV.

Those wishing to make reservations may call the Red Cross office at 452-7184, prior to July 3.

The annual St. Mary's three-day parish picnic and the four-day Granite City Jaycee's homecoming shared the spotlight during the weekend. At upper left is an early evening view of carnival rides at the Jaycee festivities and at upper right are two members of the Italian American Club, Bob Malotki (left) and John Petrucci, preparing an Italian sausage sandwich at the homecoming. Two charged in Madison Frederick E. Bosworth, 19, 1685 Second St., Madison, was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest at 12:36 a.m. Monday. He was released on a notice to appear in court at 9 a.m. Friday, July 13.

Allen D. Harterman, 39, Baldwin, Mo., was released on $100 cash bond charged with disobeying a police officer and is to appear in court at the same time as Bosworth.

Madison police answered a disturbance call at the St. Mary's grounds in the 900 block of Alton Avenue.

On arrival they said they saw a large crowd, mainly young people, apparently arguing. Police ordered the crowd to disperse.

Bosworth allegedly refused to leave, accused the police of "picking on me" and was quoted as saying "I am not leaving."

He allegedly fought with the officers when they handcuffed him.

Harterman, apparently was in the same area and according to Madison authorities he came toward a policeman who put his hand out to prevent him from getting closer. Harterman fell to the ground.

Later in the evening Harterman came to the Madison police station complaining of alleged police brutality, officers said.

Harterman was led outside the station twice and asked to leave. The third time he was escorted out of the station he was told that if he came back inside he would be arrested.

He refused the warning, returned and began arguing again, at which time he was charged, police said.

$1.4 million suit against Hope Clinic

A $1.4 million lawsuit against Dr. Hector Zevallos and the Hope Clinic for Women, Ltd., has been filed in Madison County Circuit Court by the administrators of the estate of a young woman who died after allegedly having an abortion at the clinic.

Barbara Lee Davis of Cutler, Ill., was 18 when she died June 14, 1977, after allegedly having a pregnancy abortion.

Attorney John A. Bock of Belleville filed the suit on behalf of Robert R. and Joan Thenn, administrators of the estate.

WHO ARE ARRESTED
Earl E. Jones, 18, St. Louis, and Brett A. Phillips, 18, Florissant, Mo., were charged with attempted theft after police alleged seeing Jones carrying a metal soft drink container from the rear of Ponderosa Steak House, 1511 Johnson Road, to a car nearby at 2 a.m. Tuesday. Phillips allegedly was in the car at the time.

Mrs. Fern Johnson dies

She had been ill the last year and was a hospital patient 28 days.

Mrs. Johnson had resided in Granite City for the past 51 years. She was born in Pawnee, Ill., and previously lived in Havana, Ill.

She was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Johnson was serving as secretary of the American Association of Retired Persons Chapter 1340.

She was a 50-year member of the Pythian Sisters and secretary of the order's Past Chiefs Club.

Mrs. Johnson also held membership in Gabriel Shrine 78, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem; Granite City Chapter 650, Order of Eastern Star; Eagles Auxiliary Unit 1136; and the Rebekah Lodge.

She is survived by her husband, Frank Johnson; one son, Hayward Lee Eggle of Carbondale; a daughter, Mrs. Richard (Lois) Misemer of Piarre Village, Kan.; nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services are scheduled at 1 p.m. today. Details may be found in the obituary column.

Community development radio topic

WSIE-FM (88.7), radio station on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will broadcast two programs relating to community issues on June 26, according to J. M. Haas, coordinator of the University's public service broadcasting series.

Health Care: Effective Approaches Through Nursing will be aired at 7:30 p.m. Doris Bell, assistant professor of nursing, will discuss crisis intervention in the community.

At 8 p.m., Carl S. Lossau, professor of earth sciences, geography and planning, and Mary Kane, director of community development for Madison County, will talk about community development in America's cities.

EDWARDS BURGLARY
A necklace, some old coins, about $3 in $1 bills, two bottles of soft drinks and a track-ball game are the only things known missing after a burglary at the home of Dorothy Kowalk, 2415 Edwards St., it was discovered early this week. A screen in a door was broken and an unlocked window was opened.

The Spinal Column

By DR. RICHARD C. REINHARDT

WHAT IS CASE CARE?

As this is our major mode of practice, I think that an explanation of the procedure would be quite helpful.

The patients first visit is divided into three areas. First, the Doctor takes a detailed case history including types of previous care, length of illness, etc. Second, the Doctor performs a comprehensive physical and Chiropractic examination including blood pressure, range of motion study, tender and tight muscles, fixated vertebrae, etc. Third, a full spine standing stress X-ray series is taken. The patient then is sent home unless a very acute situation is present.

Between the first and second visit, the Doctor carefully correlates and studies all the information. He then prepares a written report for the patient.

The report is given during the second visit, usually with the spouse present. The symptoms and physical findings are first reviewed. The X-rays are then explained in detail. The stress factors in both the lateral and front to back views are discussed. Secondary problems that are developing as a result of the spinal column stress are pointed out to the patient. Prime examples include disc degeneration, abnormal curvatures, arthritic calcium buildups, degenerating joints, etc.

Finally, a treatment program is presented to the patient. The objectives of the program as well as the limitations are studied. The types of therapy, additional lab work, nutritional review, etc., are also discussed in relation to the overall program.

The frequency of treatment, total time involved, and the cost of the program are considered. At this point the patient makes a decision concerning the program. This way, both the Doctor and the patient understand each other.

Frequent re-evaluation throughout the treatment program is of course very important. Both the patient and Doctor can evaluate the results at that time. Following the correction of the problem, the patient is formally dismissed with an appointment for a short monthly checkup.

Deductible utility tax proposal called unfair to GC industries

Statement Tuesday night by Attorney Leo H. Konzen: The companies which I represent in appearing before the Council tonight are the four largest employers in Granite City — Granite City Steel, A. O. Smith Corp., American Foundries and the Nestle Co. They account for approximately 10,000 jobs in Granite City.

They pay a substantial part of the community's total tax bill. They have been responsible members of this community for many, many years and their opinions on taxes — and the impact of taxes on the growth and prosperity of this community — deserve a hearing.

There have been unofficial reports that a utility tax is under consideration. However, it was only last week that we learned through the newspaper that the city administration is supporting the immediate enactment of a new, so-called energy tax.

As proposed, the tax would consist of a one percent charge against the natural gas and electric power bills of residents, businesses and industries in Granite City. In the case of residences, there would be a deductible. As we understand it, the first $100 of each month's gas and electric bill would not be subject to the tax.

The purpose of the tax would be to provide the city with enough money — estimated at $1.3 million — to complete the financing of the 19th Street overpass.

While not questioning the desirability of the overpass, we believe this is the wrong way to go about it.

The proposed energy tax would be bad for business and industry. It could be equally bad for the future growth of the Granite City economy.

Let me summarize the reasons why my clients as well as other industries believe that there must be better ways to complete the 19th Street overpass than by adopting a tax which in and of itself will constitute a long step backwards for Granite City and the people of Granite City:

1. The energy tax as proposed is discriminatory and unfair. The point to the deductible is, of course, to place most of the burden on the 19th Street overpass. The fact is that the City of Granite City would collect far more from a one percent tax against gas and electric bills, even with the deductible, than was estimated when the proposal surfaced last week.

4. Newspaper reports said the city expects the tax, if adopted, to bring in about $500,000 a year. Actually, it would bring in several times that much. In the form proposed, the energy tax would increase the annual tax bills of just one company, Granite City Steel, by about $500,000.

5. Granite City Steel is paying Granite City taxes of about $4,350,000 in personal and real estate property taxes this year. The energy tax would represent an 11 percent increase in the company's local tax burden — an increase which could not be passed on to customers without violating the president's wage and price guidelines.

6. As everyone knows, there have been tremendous inflationary increases in the cost of natural gas and electricity. Again using Granite City Steel as an example, the company's natural gas and electric power costs are running about $1,500,000 a month higher this year than in 1978. It hardly seems sensible to impose additional cost burdens on energy.

7. There are other adverse cost considerations attached to the proposed energy tax. The utility companies are allowed to add up to 3-10th of 1 percent to the 1 percent tax to cover their collection expenses. In addition, given the rate at which construction costs are escalating, it may well be that the amount needed to complete the overpass will be substantially more than the present estimate of $1.3 million. As far as we know, there has been no determination as to where this money would come from.

The City of Granite City was badly hurt some years ago by the closing of several of our largest employers, including General Steel's Casting Division and Union Star.

Fortunately, we have been able to recover from the economic losses of that period. Our major industries have stabilized and are planning to expand.

Granite City is beginning to capitalize on its central location, its access to coal and iron ore and its excellent rail, highway and water transportation advantages. And new jobs to this community.

The major industries of Granite City must compete with plants in the so-called Sun Belt states and in many foreign countries where wages and other costs are often well below those prevailing here.

They have been able to compete successfully and, as a result, Granite City is regarded as a good location for new industries, new businesses and new jobs.

The proposed energy tax could change a now favorable environment. We question the wisdom of turning to a special tax which, whatever else, will clearly saddle our existing competitors do not have to bear, and will handicap efforts to bring new plants and new jobs to this community.

pletely forget their initial wants. Before this decision is finalized, a public hearing should be initiated and the people should decide if they approve of a utility tax.

The city should instruct Mr. Callis (City Attorney Lance Callis) to look at the possibilities of a discrimination suit against the U.S. government in order to get the monies.

The citizens of this community will not stand for a tax of any sort.

Job security, growth seen as jeopardized by overpass taxes

Joint statement Tuesday night by the four unsalaried officers of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, President Roger A. Higgins, First Vice-President Kenneth Evers, Second Vice-President Drew Karandeff and Treasurer Paul M. Walter.

The recent announcement by Mayor Schuler of the intention to enact a new tax of 1 percent on gas and electric utility bills within the city of Granite City will, we believe, be detrimental to the job security and job growth in firms in Granite City.

We understand that the purpose of this new tax is to aid in the construction of the 19th Street overpass. We wish to point out that industry, contrary to the statement made by the mayor, is not substantially benefited by this project.

It does, indeed, place a heavy onerous tax burden on companies in Granite City. It is our belief that this tax will seriously retard expansion of existing industry and the bringing in of new industry to the Granite City area.

It is the announced intention to raise $1,300,000 by the institution of this tax to complete the sum of $5,200,000 which, it is estimated, will be needed to construct the 19th Street overpass.

We have serious doubts as to whether or not this project can be completed for $5,200,000. In the event that we are correct, it will then be necessary for the city government to impose new taxes on the citizens of Granite City.

We note that it is the intention to provide a $100 deduction from utility bills prior to the calculation of the tax to be paid.

The announcement in the Granite City Press-Record stated, "This would eliminate the tax against virtually all householders, with industry paying the greater part of the tax."

This we feel to be discriminatory and detrimental to the business interests of our community. We know of no other municipality in the state that has not applied a flat percentage to its customers.

Energy costs continue to skyrocket.

This proposed tax — in addition to the increased energy costs and in addition to the cost of collecting the tax that must be paid to utility companies — could seriously affect expansion of existing industry in our community and bring in new industry to this area.

Ultimately, the workers in Granite City could face fewer job opportunities.

Inasmuch as we were not notified in advance of this impending move to pass this tax, we have not had an opportunity to thoroughly study all of its implications.

However, we are sure that a serious miscalculation has been made upon the economic penalty this is being assessed against business in Granite City.

The newspaper article of June 14, 1979, pointed out that an estimated $300,000 per year would be raised. We have determined that this figure is far short of the economic impact and, on this basis, we ask that a tax on utilities be abandoned, being inequitable and unfair, and a burden too great for industry to pay.

We ask that this financing method be held in abeyance while other alternate plans are investigated — with our help, if you need us.

Motor fuel tax funds distributed

Illinois municipalities have been allotted $1,980,538 as their share of motor fuel tax paid into the state treasury during May, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Motor fuel tax funds are allocated monthly to the various municipalities in Illinois for their streets and highways. The monies allocated are computed on the basis of population.

Allotments to Quad-City area communities included Granite City, $50,527; Madison, $8,521, and Venice, $5,663.

The DOT announced it had

Pesticide use training in Mitchell

Pesticide use training will be conducted by the Illinois Department of Agriculture and Illinois Department of Public Health. Location will be the Chouteau Township Social Center, at 697A North Thorngate Drive, just north of Illinois Route 203 and the Interstate 270 overpass at Mitchell.

The instruction will start at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 26. Persons interested in becoming licensed to apply pesticide chemicals are invited to attend this training and to take the examination for qualification, Chouteau Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks said.

"The Chouteau Township Board of Trustees would like to have several persons in our township qualified so as to have available personnel for employment in the mosquito abatement program which we are organizing at this time."

"Anyone interested in taking the instruction and examination may call the Chouteau Township office, 931-0323, for what information we have available," Sparks concluded.

Overpass not worth it—Bowler

Text of remarks at Tuesday night's City Council meeting by Alderman Paul H. Bowler.

Let me state, at the outset, what I am opposed to regarding this matter.

I am not opposed to the issue of the overpass per se, but I am opposed to the method by which the money is to be raised.

To impose a utility tax on the citizens of this community is the most blatant form of governmental irresponsibility.

What you are doing, in essence, is taxing the citizens for keeping warm in the winter and cool in the summer.

With the deregulation of oil, who knows what costs the consumers will bear with their utilities?

Take, for example, California. During the drought a few years ago, they asked the public to conserve their water consumption. The people conserved so well their water bill was raised 300 percent to cover the cost of operations.

We have also experienced in this area the theory that the less power you use, the higher your rate is.

It is easy to criticize without the method of finance.

One area, not previously explored, is to have the state of Illinois finance such a project. Under Chapter 561 of the Illinois State Statutes, we may be able to finance such a project with available, previously unspent funds.

If a utility tax is the only means of raising money for the overpass, then the means do not justify the end.

We talk about losing a $3.8 million grant. We have not yet touched this money. In reality, that money is not extant.

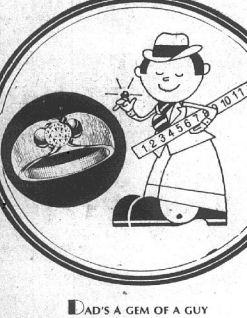

It is just like any household with a budget. If they want something and cannot afford it, they either have to compromise and accept less than they wanted, or completely forget their initial wants. Before this decision is finalized, a public hearing should be initiated and the people should decide if they approve of a utility tax.

The city should instruct Mr. Callis (City Attorney Lance Callis) to look at the possibilities of a discrimination suit against the U.S. government in order to get the monies.

The citizens of this community will not stand for a tax of any sort.

Recycling Center asks donor help

Some things cannot be recycled and increasing amounts of this type of item are being left at the Coordinated Youth Services Recycling Center, Niedringhaus Avenue and Adams Street.

Items not wanted, because they cannot be recycled, include paper plates, telephone books, magazines, receipts and similar paper goods.

In the paper line, only newspapers can be accepted at the recycling center, Debbie Woodworth, project coordinator, stressed today.

"We appreciate so many people donating and delivering items to the center, but it would be helpful if cans and glass items are kept separated from the paper stacked outside the gate," Miss Woodworth said.

She explained the gates are locked when the center is closed and those bringing items for recycling leave them outside the fence.

It would improve the efficiency, as well as the overall appearance of the center, if newspapers were placed inside boxes, rather than left in paper bags or just flat upon the open ground where it blows around, she said.

Glass, cans and papers stacked together create a hazard for youths loading the packing bins when more papers are stacked on top. She asks those wanting to deliver items to the recycling center to call her between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, at 876-2383, before taking their donations over there.

This step has become necessary, she explained, as the newspapers are not collected from the center on a regular basis by the firm handling the recycling.

The facility is not adequate enough to hold a large supply of paper, the coordinator stated.

This year the group will perform for the first time in Moscow, Russia, as well as in many communities throughout the United States and in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

Performers are selected for the annual tour from thousands of high school and college age young people who attend auditions held after each concert. An audition will take place here and anyone interested may contact the church for further information or attend the performance Monday.

Qualifications to audition include being between 16 and 25 years of age and an accomplished instrumentalist or vocalist.

Interviews also are held for technicians to operate sound and lighting systems

Inch of water for garden each week

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser
Garden vegetables need an inch of water a week during the summer months to maintain high quality and yields.

Rain is the best source of water, but the plant isn't particular as to the source when it starts getting dry. Thus, if water is available, irrigate to keep the plants growing.

An inch of water doesn't sound like much, but for an acre it amounts to 27,154 gallons.

For a garden of 1,000 square feet it is 627 gallons, or about 0.6 gallon per square foot of surface. This inch of water will moisten dry loam soils about six inches deep. It will penetrate less in clay soils and more in sandy soils. Sandy soils require more frequent waterings because they have less water holding capacity.

The inch of water is better applied as a single application rather than a little each day. Frequent light sprinklings don't get the water down to the plant's root zone.

The water can be applied by a hose, sprinkler or perforated hoses or by flooding. Uniform application down the row or over the garden is essential for best results.

Watering can be done any time during the day. But leaf disease problems might be avoided by watering early enough in the day so that the plants dry before the dew appears in the evening.

Two fire calls to Venice highline

Venice firemen were called out at 2:16 p.m. and again at 7:20 p.m., Tuesday to extinguish weed and railroad tie fires at the Illinois Terminal Railroad Highline bridge. The fire was at the eastern end of the trestle which is between Illinois 203 and Illinois 3.

According to a Venice fire department spokesman the fire was hard to get to and the fire truck had to straddle the track part of the way. Firemen had to walk carrying extinguishers and chain saws about 800 feet to reach the fire.

Several old ties that were on fire created much heat, they said.

No damage estimate was made.

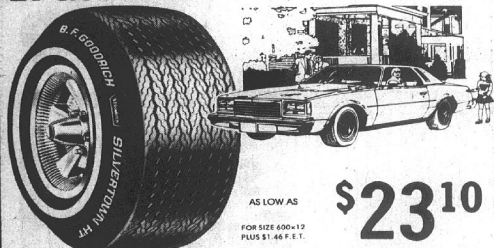

Firemen were at the scene from 2:16 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. and again from 7:20 p.m. until 8:20 p.m. Venice firemen were also called to put out a weed fire in an empty lot at Jackson and Weaver streets between 1:43 p.m. and 2:07 p.m. Tuesday.

The highline has been closed for the past six months for repairs.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES ALEXANDER. They exchanged wedding vows June 2 at First Presbyterian Church. The bride is the former Miss Joyce Marie Haldeman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haldeman, 4008 Melrose Ave.

Miss Haldeman weds Charles Alexander

Miss Joyce Marie Haldeman and Charles Alexander exchanged wedding vows June 2 at First Presbyterian Church before an altar decorated with gladiolus and pom poms.

The former Miss Haldeman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haldeman, 4008 Melrose Ave. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander, 2224 National Ave.

The Rev. David Maxton officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Organist Mrs. Schmitt played "It," "Evergreen" and "Sunrise, Sunset."

The bride wore the gown her mother wore 25 years ago, on July 3, 1954. The dress was designed with lace and tulle over satin with a scoop neckline.

The long sleeves tapered to a point over the bride's hands. The bouffant skirt with a short sweep train was extended with a hoop and crinoline.

Her fingertip veil of tulle trimmed with lace was secured by a Juliet cap of seed pearls and lace. She carried a bouquet of silk daisies, stephanotis and baby breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Nancy Kuntz, the bride's sister. She wore a sheer polyester gown in an apricot hue with a round neckline and ruffled detailing at the caplet effect. She carried a bouquet of apricot miniature carnations, daisies and baby breath and wore a sprig of baby breath in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Martha Haldeman, the bride's sister-in-law, and Mrs. Patricia Jones, wore identical gowns in shades of blue and yellow. They carried flowers to complement their gowns and wore baby breath in their hair.

The flower girl, Amy Remsbeck, wore a yellow dotted swiss gown with a high gathered waistline and puff sleeves trimmed in eyelash lace. She carried a basket of silk daisies, carnations and baby breath.

Ring bearer was Chad Alexander, the groom's son.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Haldeman, wore an olive green and off-white blouse dress with a pleated skirt. Mrs. Alexander wore a pink metallic polyester gown with long sheer sleeves and a high neckline. Both wore corsages matching their dresses.

Best man was Russell Schwamie, Donald Alexander, the groom's brother, and Keith Easley served as groomsmen. Ushers were Michael and David Haldeman, brothers of the bride.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner in their home. The reception was held at American Legion Hall. Mrs. Pam Schwamie attended the guest book.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Granite City High School North, where she was a member of National Honor Society, Masque and Gavel and National Forensic League. She is employed at Venture.

The groom is a 1973 graduate of Granite City High School North and is presently attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He is employed as a finisher at Mrs. Siebold Bake Shop.

An Hawaiian theme was used at the event and the speaker was Mrs. Marcellus Kaufhold.

Venice to get working cash

The Venice City Council was informed by City Attorney Harry Hartman Tuesday night that he had been told by the bonding company that $80,000 would become available from the working cash fund bond sale immediately.

Pending receipt of the bond money the council approved transfers from the working cash fund as follows: $30,000 to the general fund, $10,000 to the police pension fund and $10,000 to the street and alley fund.

Hartman said that repayment should be made in late August or slightly thereafter. He pointed out that some utility tax monies should become available in August.

Hartman told the council he had talked to the county treasurer and tax bills will be mailed July 1, with the first payment due one month later. He said a fair amount of money should be collected by Aug. 8 or 9 and then the city possibly could get some tax revenue.

Mayor Tyrone Echols told the council he had talked to manpower authorities in Edwardsville and was informed current manpower employees who will be off the payroll in September will not be replaced.

"The only way we will be getting anyone is if we hire a present manpower person on the city payroll, then they will furnish us with a person," Echols said.

"I also want to report that on my trip to Chicago to meet with the Housing and Urban Development people, I found out that they will reconsider our housing development plan. However, we are competing for approval with 17 other counties, not just Madison County as I had thought," Echols said.

Hartman recommended to the council that a public meeting in regard to use of bond revenue funds be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 3, prior to the city council meeting. The council concurred.

Hartman noted that the amount of money to be received from May 1, 1979, through April 10, 1980, will be $188,831.

In the 1978-79 year, revenue sharing funds totaling $147,838, were received. Of that amount, $123,838 was spent for police salaries.

Echols announced that a new grocery store will soon open in the old Tri-City store building. It will be known as Venice E-Rite and operated by men from St. Louis who already have a grocery store in Missouri.

Police were told a man was acting suspiciously at that address and when they arrived they alleged seeing him breathing from a plastic bag into which paint had been sprayed. Heroism, tireless effort in hospital flood recalled

(St. Elizabeth Medical Center Hospital)

On the night of April 11 Granite City was wading through five inches of rain. Flash flood warnings became a reality.

Many basements in homes of Granite City residents were flooded and St. Elizabeth Medical Center was no exception.

By quick thinking and fast action on the part of medical center associates, the situation was quickly controlled with only a slight interruption in center routines and patient activities.

Recorded below is a chronicle of events which took place that evening and the day that followed.

It has been raining heavily all day. By late afternoon the rains stopped but skies to the west were soon growing darker. Clouds were building, building for the storm's final bout.

Betty Sarich, an SEMC computer room associate, was on her way to work at 3 p.m. "I found my lucky penny that day," she said.

Upon her arrival at the center she had heard no weather forecasts for the evening. To her it was just another day, except for her "lucky" discovery.

But that special penny was anything but lucky. She boarded the elevator in the parking lot, at the usual doors, but that day the elevator refused to work. She remained stuck inside for nearly 20 minutes.

Reports from the National Weather Service weren't reassuring. There seemed to be a green cast to the air, an ominous sign that the worst was yet to come.

Earlier that afternoon as heavy rains persisted, management teams were heading back to the center from a retreat at Fordyce House in South St. Louis.

Some members of the management team were concerned. "If this keeps up will the basement flood? There's been flooding before but only a few inches."

"Don't worry, the basement will be all right. In the convent on 5th Floor Binney Wing, Sister Mary Thomas, president of SEMC, and the other sisters were watching the ditch between the construction sight and the hospital."

Puddles of muddy water were changing "into what looked like a river that was not just standing, it was flowing. . . there was a froth on it," said Sister Thomas.

"By the time I got over to S-Doctors and opened the door to the stairwell, I heard a rushing of water that was quite loud."

She continued, "I couldn't really tell what the noise was, but as I descended the stairs it got louder and louder. When I got to the lower level I couldn't believe what I saw."

"The water was pouring in at a tremendous speed through the entrance. The hole that the construction workers had made (to connect the Doctors Wing to the new construction) was as large as a hallway."

"There were a couple of pieces of plywood bent over so that you could see that the (temporary wall over the hole) had broken through. The water was pouring in at a tremendous rate."

Meanwhile, Dave Morrison, supervisor of Bio-Medical Engineering, was approaching the stairs, the stairwell with Larry Thomas, an Illinois Bell representative.

They were moving equipment from the Intensive Care Unit and installing new phone lines on the lower floor.

"When we got to the main floor, we could see the water," Larry said. Dave ran down the stairs to help out and find out if anyone was in the basement.

"I told Cathy (Cathy Robertson, R.N., evening supervisor) you people really have a problem." It definitely filled up fast," he said.

While Dave was downstairs, he looked off the elevators and set up makeshift ramps with rugs.

He notified everyone he would be switching to emergency power. His main concern was to shut the power off.

"My first concern . . . kill the power. We can survive on flashlights and candles for a bit, but no longer," he said.

If the transformers hadn't been shut down so quickly, they would have been destroyed and it would have taken months to rebuild them.

Cathy was on the main floor making her usual evening rounds when she ran into Larry Thomas.

"He told me about the water leaking into the basement. He said, 'This isn't a trickle, it's a flood,' she recalled."

By that time, Dave said, "It was coming in . . . getting supplies coming up from Central Supply when the temporary wall we built (the makeshift levee) broke loose."

There were only a few people left in the basement when the wall broke. And while Morrison was working on the transformers, Sister Mary Michael went down stairs to help get the Central Supply and Computer Room associates out of the area.

"I picked up a couple of kids who were working in Central Supply to get them out. But even at that, we were not able to keep ahead of the water," Sister Michael said.

She added that initially there were only a few inches of water in the basement, but "it all came up at once. . . it was like a giant's foot. The water gushed in because it created quite a current and pushed the furniture and other debris often blocked the way."

Betty was still in the computer room when the wall broke. Cathy Robertson had seen her earlier and told her how bad the weather was getting and that there was a leak reported in the basement . . . perhaps she should power down the computer.

Betty telephoned her supervisor, Keith Pryor, director of Management Services. She was in constant communication with him throughout the crisis.

"When I was talking to Keith, the water came in . . . it was all over the floor. . . I was scared me," Betty said.

Maintenance left sheets and rugs under the door to keep the water out, but they weren't enough. She had to keep wringing them out in a little sink in the computer room.

"It seemed like a long time, and the water kept coming in," she said. Keith helped her, by phone, to power the computer down and then someone knocked at the door.

"I heard the men scream . . . when I opened the door it was about knee deep. Everything came in—it was so slippery, so swift, I could hardly make my way to the steps," Betty said.

The door couldn't be closed because of the swift current. Boxes, packages, furniture and other items from Central Supply that were left in the path of the flowing water were swept into the hall."

It looked like toy furniture," Betty said.

Joyce Mitchell, Public Relations Department secretary, was on her way to dinner when she noticed all the lights were out in the doctor's wing.

She stopped by the center to check out the situation. By this time, the sisters from the convent were stationed throughout the hallways with flashlights.

"We almost had to pass people in a chainlike fashion from one to another to make sure visitors were not wandering around too far in the dark," Joyce said.

Most of the patients remained calm throughout the power outage while medical center associates dealt with the water below patient floors.

"Delores Waelz (director of Material Management) was probably the first to get here, and I don't know when she got here or how, but she and Lila Stover (director of Housekeeping) were here in jeans and boots to go to work," said Joyce.

"Within a half-hour to 45 minutes, Waelz knew what the problem was and was on the phone calling the fire department for pumps and Granite City Steel for sandbags," Joyce said.

Lila called all her housekeeping staff to be on hand as soon as the water was pumped out.

Flooding was occurring below the Emergency Room. Steve Missey, Emergency Medical Services coordinator for the State of Illinois, was paged and on hand to transfer any emergency patients who needed care, as the power was off in ER.

"I came down to St. Elizabeth, and when I got here I found we were under water," Steve said.

"I checked with ER and found that they had things under control and then I helped with sandbagging."

The associates on duty that evening were able to assist the situation quickly enough to get all the emergency patients transferred, though some people who had already begun treatment at St. Elizabeth were awaiting transfer.

Missey noted people were cooperative during the initial crisis and emergency patients seemed calm.

"A gentleman in ER had something wrong with his face—his nose was bleeding or something I asked if he was doing okay and said I was sorry about the conditions."

"He mentioned he was doing all right and said, 'you guys have more important things to do right now.'"

SEMC orderly Bob Chin was called down to sandbag

after checking the floors with Cathy Robertson. "I thought it went real good—real calm. . . all the people stayed calm. The nurses on all the floors went to work doing a good job. . . the patients were very understanding," he said.

Throughout the entire evening, volunteers, administrative staff and center associates who were on duty pulled together to sandbag, call necessary help and guide visitors through the darkness.

These and many more smaller efforts helped minimize the crisis.

Everyone helped out. Nurses were helping patients, orderlies were sandbagging, the sisters were calming visitors, and dietary was providing food and drink.

The gray crew, whose department was literally shut down, pitched in to help dietary with serving food.

Those people who had gone home for the evening prior to the flood came back in to help by getting trays from patient floors and washing dishes for the morning meals.

By the early hours of Thursday morning, much of the water was gone.

Paul Hopper, director of Plant Operations, said, "Most of the water ran back into the same hole it came in. What didn't run back out was pumped out."

Now, medical center associates were faced with five basic problems: only emergency power was available and many of the rooms and supplies were scattered about and piled in heaps throughout the hospital basement.

About an inch or two of water remained on the floor and the same hole it came in. What didn't run back out was pumped out."

Associates from the Physical Therapy Department, which was also without electricity, spent Thursday running those elevators which were still

"They actually worked longer than I did. They're just now getting days off."

Central Supply is a vital hospital service, providing literally all sterile supplies; everything from gauze pads to surgical instruments.

Most of the supplies were considered contaminated after the flood and had to be discarded.

Carting everything out to the dumpster was a big task, but not as big as re-stocking supplies that had been soaked.

Helen Hickam, director of Central Supply, said SEMC's suppliers provided valuable services.

"There was a sales representative from one of our suppliers who heard about the flood on the news. 'He came to the hospital that night and sat down with me in the cafeteria to go over the list of damaged items. The next morning, we started getting supplies.'"

"Salespeople from other companies have been wonderful. I mean really wonderful, marvelous."

The salesman from another company retrieved a key for the warehouse and delivered supplies on Saturday and said he would be available on Sunday if he was needed."

Helen told of one dedicated volunteer who was determined to come and help clean, no matter what.

"We have a volunteer who is 85 years old. . . Helen said, 'She told me she was quite capable of bringing a mop and bucket to clean those floors.'"

Only after Helen explained that some of the older volunteers were not coming in did she agree to stay home.

Associates from the Physical Therapy Department, which was also without electricity, spent Thursday running those elevators which were still operating and had suddenly become a premonition.

Physical Therapy aide Ruth Bruce said they took some good-natured ribbing about their temporary jobs, even though "we didn't even have white gloves."

Another important department which was taken out of commission was the hospital laundry.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center has more than 400 beds, all of which require daily linen changes.

Also, a mountain of towels, washcloths, patient gowns and other linens must be washed each day. Without a laundry, SEMC is in a predicament.

Mike Gulash, laundry director, described how he went about finding another place to temporarily do SEMC's laundry.

"I called Sister Edwaine, who is in charge of the laundry at St. Mary Medical Center in East St. Louis and asked if it would be possible to send our wash there."

"Jack Grieves (assistant vice president) called up Tom Walther (one of St. Mary's administrators) and made arrangements so we could do it there in the afternoon."

So, for several hours each afternoon until St. Elizabeth's laundry was available again on April 21, several associates from SEMC would take over St. Mary's equipment so the linen supply would continue uninterrupted.

Rental trucks were used to transport linens to and from St. Mary's.

Perhaps one of the greatest disappointments of the entire flood episode was damage to the hospital's computer system.

Even though records were salvaged, Keith Pryor said that it will be a big job to restore everything to working order.

A temporary computer system was set up with the help of McAuto, the computer subsidiary of McDonnell Douglas Corporation.

"We've borrowed a data collection system and a financial system, so our billing can go on as before," Keith said.

Out of his office Keith said he retrieved only "a fingernail clipper, two pens and a picture of my wife and me."

During the flood and cleanup, work crews and volunteers worked many hours, often on extended shifts.

Periodically, they needed a bit of nourishment. To provide snacks as well as entire meals, the Dietary Department worked to prepare food for 60 people day and night.

The dietitians had the additional task of visiting each nursing floor to examine patient charts to see what kinds of foods were required because their computer printouts were no longer available.

They also made up substitute menus in the print shop and distributed them throughout the hospital.

Although SEMC associates came to the aid of the center, many lay people also provided a backbone of support by taking time out in the storm to help sandbag and pump water.

To those individuals, gratitude can never be fully expressed in words alone.

An advertisement was run in the Granite City Press-Record soon after the flood thanking publicly Granite City Steel, the VFW, A.O. Smith, Paul Skinner, Madison, Venice and Granite City fire departments, Illinois Power.

Dron Electric, Jerry Deinger of Korte Construction, Granite City Street Department, Illinois American Water Company, ambulance personnel and Art Griffin and laborers. . . But for those whose names were overlooked, this kindness and support will never be forgotten.

Only two weeks after the flood, all hospital operations, except for the computer room, were back to normal.

That operations returned to normal so quickly and that there were no major injuries during the entire process speaks well of SEMC associates.

The crisis is past, and although it will not be soon forgotten, it will not interfere with SEMC's mission of providing health care to the Quad-Cities.

Hospice to begin patient care in July

By KATHY SMALL
of the Press-Record

The Hospice program of Madison County is scheduled to begin patient care operation in July with three to five patients at the beginning, adding many more as more experience is acquired.

Hospice is the management of terminally ill patients in such a way that patients are able to remain at home with their families and receive in-home care until death.

According to Betty Safdar, co-chairman of the board of directors of Hospice of Madison County, there are approximately 450 deaths a year from cancer in Madison County, and the Hospice program will be able to care for approximately one-fourth of that number in the future. "Not everyone wants Hospice. Some people would rather stay in the hospital until death," said Mrs. Safdar, whose husband, Dr. Shabbir Safdar, is the chairman of the board and medical director of the program.

Requirements for those able to receive Hospice care are: the patient has to be a resident of Madison County; the patient has to have a prognosis of terminal cancer; the patient may only have six months or less to live; active treatment will not change the course of the disease; and the patient must have a primary caregiver in the home for the Hospice team to train. Ability to pay for services received is not a requirement.

"We hope to have an inpatient unit some day for those patients that have no one to care for them," Mrs. Safdar said. The patient, his family or his physician may request admission into the Hospice program.

Hospice enables the patient to stay at home with his family in familiar surroundings and stay relatively free of pain. A trained team of nurses, nurses, social workers and clergy members will be on hand seven days a week, 24 hours a day for care provision.

According to Mrs. Safdar, nursing at home gives the family confidence in that they know someone will be there to help in case of need.

Services the care team would provide are many. Volunteers will be on hand to keep the patient comfortable, can provide baby-sitting service for the family, can give the primary caregiver in the home time to rest, can run errands and much more. They will not give any active nursing care, according to Mrs. Safdar.

Volunteers are really the backbone of the program," she said. "Volunteers actually become part of the family," said Jimmy Tuetkin, chairman of the board of public relations and volunteers.

Nurses and physicians, along with the patient's own physician, will be on call for emergencies, in addition to regularly scheduled visits. The patient's own physician is encouraged to remain on the case.

"Hopefully, the physician will be relieved that his patient will receive extra care," said Mrs. Safdar. Patients involved in the Hospice program will be administered a medication called Hospice Mixture daily which will enable the person to live a basically pain-free existence until death while allowing him to be at all times alert and aware.

The care team will meet weekly for an assessment session to discuss any new developments in each case and to decide on future care and counseling programs for the patient and his family.

Care team members have been involved in training programs for four weeks and will complete their training at the end of June. "We've been surprised at the number of people signing up for the training courses," Mrs. Tuetkin noted.

Volunteers and nurses have been trained in patient care and family counseling, in addition to bereavement services after the death occurs. They have also been counseled themselves on how to deal with pending death and how to communicate with the family and patient about approaching death.

"Care team members cannot force any personal opinions or feelings on a patient about death; they have to find out how the patient himself feels about death," Mrs. Safdar stressed.

According to Mrs. Safdar and Mrs. Tuetkin, the terminally-ill patient feels that he is a burden to his family when remaining at home. Team members have to educate the family and advise the patient that they can receive better care at home while in familiar surroundings.

The Quad-Cities Mental Health Association will be involved in stress counseling for the care team members. According to Mrs. Safdar, the team will go through a great deal of grieving and will have to be able to release these feelings.

After the training sessions are completed, volunteers and nurses will be subject to an in-depth interview to make sure they are able to properly care for terminally-ill patients and will be able to accept the tremendous responsibilities involved.

Another important aspect of the Hospice program is the involvement of the clergy, under the direction of the Rev. Chris Zachary of the First United Presbyterian Church in Madison.

"We're encouraging the clergy to get involved," Mrs. Safdar said. They will be assisting in grief, bereavement and stress counseling.

The Madison County Hospice program is patterned after the program in New Haven, Conn., the most successful in-home patient care program in the U.S. Heading the program at St. Elizabeth Medical Center is Dr. Safdar, who has been involved in planning the program for over a year.

The idea has gained wide support in Granite City according to Mrs. Tuetkin, due to press coverage and a speaker's bureau of 12 speakers who have appeared before community service groups and clubs, and the fact the program has been endorsed by various medical societies in Madison County. The main problem with the program is fund raising. No government funds are available as of yet, so the death savings have to come from donations from various clubs, organizations, industry and private foundations, according to Mrs. Safdar.

It is believed that it will take $60,000 a year to run the office and to offset the costs of those patients who will not be able to pay for the services received. "It is a lot cheaper for the patient to stay at home than go to the hospital," said Mrs. Tuetkin. One fear is that there will be some patients in the program solely for the economic benefit, according to Mrs. Safdar.

"People know they need to change their outlook on death, but they don't know what they need," Mrs. Safdar noted. It is hoped that Hospice will provide what they need, she concluded.

ANNOUNCE SUMMER HOURS AT CHURCH Parishioners at First United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue, are being reminded that the church has begun its summer schedule. Church school is beginning at 8:45 a.m. on Sundays and worship services are to be at 10 a.m. The summer schedule continues through Sept. 2.

June 29 deadline for disaster aid

Some Illinois residents face the loss of disaster recovery aid if an application for aid is not submitted by June 29. Phil Zafropoulos, director of housing for the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA) has said.

"In order to be eligible for the programs, Illinois residents must submit an application by Friday, June 29," the director stressed.

"It would be an unnecessary loss if someone were to become ineligible for recovery aid or reimbursement simply because he did not meet that deadline."

"All the programs are still available and I want to stress that some people may be eligible for reimbursement."

"This may include temporary housing expenses incurred during the flooding (last spring). Also, all or some home repair costs could be eligible under the Limited Home Repair program," Zafropoulos said.

To apply for reimbursement under the flood recovery programs, Illinois residents should call 1-800-322-2841 (toll free) or write the Disaster Service Center, 123 SW Jefferson, Peoria, Ill.

Can a revenue source other than the proposed utility tax be found to help build the 19th Street overpass?

Solomon may have thought he had some difficult issues to decide, but what about the proposed utility tax to help finance a 19th Street railroad crossing traffic overpass? It will be a tough task for taxpayers and municipal officials to find a mutually acceptable middle ground.

We tend to agree with Alderman Bowler that any added taxation can be harmful, psychologically and actually, and we tend to disagree with him if he thinks that the overpass is a goal that doesn't justify extreme efforts. It is badly needed. His was the negative vote in a 12-1 City Council tally Tuesday night favoring preparation of documents authorizing the tax and a bond issue utilizing loans from the firemen's and policemen's pension funds.

Notwithstanding the importance and urgency of the overpass, which can improve public safety and increase access to the growing port area, we doubt that the tax proposal announced June 14 can or should be adopted as outlined.

Points which are being raised include the possibility of "overkill." Would a one percent tax on natural gas and electrical usage with a $100 monthly deductible clause raise far more money than is needed? Would the collection fee be far in excess of the real collection cost?

Other questions come to mind. Is $100 the right place to draw the line? Even more important, would a utility tax place an unfair burden on local industries, giving their competitors an advantage and jeopardizing Granite City and Madison County job security and employment growth? It is worthy to note that energy costs already have been escalating.

A legal challenge is under consideration, four firms employing 10,000 indicated Tuesday. They asserted that "no other city in Illinois levies a utility tax with a deductible as proposed."

Aside from this, there is a question of whether such a levy might prompt those paying it to seek alternate fuels or other ways of avoiding the full impact of the tax, thus reducing the revenue it would produce.

It would have been better if some of these points could have been reviewed informally before a specific tax package had jelled.

Of course, the aldermanic committee can accurately say that it has been moving fast in order to retain qualification for $3,900,000 in authorized grants, and that the sooner construction bids are sought the more likely it is that the work can be done within the present $5,200,000 estimate.

Taxpayers including those who pay millions of dollars annually—have a right to voice in such decisions, if not the final vote. Fortunately, discussions are being arranged with them, and a public hearing will be held next Tuesday night, June 26, permitting a full range of viewpoints to be heard.

Is there a viable alternative, as Chamber of Commerce officers suggested at the Council session? If so, all concerned have a duty to try to identify it and perfect its details so that "the remedy fits the problem."

The quicker the city and industries can sit down together, the better. They surely can accomplish more across the table than across a courtroom.

Machinists tell why they are suing oil exporting nations

Comment by Fred Speckmann, directing business representative, Machinists District 9—Our union has brought suit against the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), charging that it is fixing prices in violation of our nation's anti-trust laws.

If the OPEC nations were American corporations, there would be every expectation that the courts of our land would be able to set matters right. After all, even to a layman it appears an open and shut case. The OPEC charter says:

"The organization shall devise ways and means of ensuring the stabilization of prices in the international crude oil markets with a view to eliminating harmful and unnecessary fluctuations."

This appears to be a conspiracy to eliminate the impact of marketplace activity as a deterrent to price increases or price catalysts, and OPEC's activities over the past two decades have fulfilled every expectation its member nations had when they chartered their cartel.

The price of crude oil has increased from 75.7 cents a barrel in 1961 to around $18 a barrel in 1979.

While OPEC may have organized originally only to ensure that their nations realize a substantially larger share of the profits from the single non-renewable source of wealth they have, crude oil, eventually it became an instrument to sap the world into total submission to its will.

And, according to Jack Anderson, it had the compliance of Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger, who perhaps wanted to divert attention to a crisis other than the crisis of Watergate which was destroying Nixon's administration.

So, according to Anderson, they conspired with the Shah of Iran who, for his own reasons, demanded an increase in the price of crude, an increase which the OPEC nations did not seek.

Through a withholding action in 1973, the price of crude which had risen only to $2.91 in 12 years was suddenly hiked 40 percent to $11.61 per barrel in 1973. It has been rising at inflationary rates ever since, and has been accompanied by an increasing control of the entire vertical structure of the petroleum industry by OPEC.

There is a mountain of evidence to prove that OPEC has been conducting its business in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and the Clayton Act and other U.S. laws. The problem may not be the fact of guilt, but the impact a legal action in the United States will have on the OPEC cartel.

Our suit asks that the oil companies, all of which are riding OPEC increases to fatter and fatter profits without doing much if anything to develop competitive sources of oil, be forced to withhold their payments to OPEC nations until any judgment which the court makes against OPEC is satisfied.

The cost of OPEC's price-fixing to our union and the American consumer runs into the billions. Our brief states that since 1974 through the present, OPEC revenue from fixed prices amounts to approximately $450 billion.

The general impact of these price hikes on our economy has been devastating. Our attorney Richard L. Fine, was recently quoted by a Wisconsin newspaper to the effect that the courts also could attach any holdings which OPEC nations have in our country which resulted from illegal price increases of oil. Let us hope they can be, and that, along with the attachment of payments from the oil companies, it will be sufficient inducement to OPEC to break up the conspiracy which is breaking the backs of the American consumer.

RELEASED ON BOND

Donald E. Justus, 23, of 2260 State St., Apt. 2, was arrested outside of Curt's Drive-In Restaurant, 1623 Madison Ave., at 9:40 p.m. Tuesday and was jailed on two counts of battery. It is alleged he came out of the restaurant and attacked Henry Clifton, 200 Broadway, Venice, and Michael Drive, 1827 Fourth St., Madison, on the parking lot. Both men were punched and threats on their lives were voiced. Police were called.

Justus was released on $200 cash bond at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Capital improvements in GC revenue budget

Acquisition of more than $100,000 worth of new equipment for the city

The new 1979-80 budget totals $996,237, an increase of $232,276 over last year's budget of $763,961, and a rise of $182,000 over an earlier projected tentative budget.

The appropriation bill projects the expenditure of $14,263 under entitlement seven funds, $165,681 out of entitlement eight funds, $5,226,444 under entitlement nine and $219,847 out of entitlement ten funds

also provides $60,000 for the purchase of equipment, remodeling of the clerk's and treasurer's offices in the city hall and a new city hall boiler are among capital improvements set up in a new federal revenue sharing budget approved by the City Council Tuesday night.

The budget projects $14,263 for purchase of street department equipment that will include two tandem trucks at $50,000 and two clam shells at $20,000. It also projects $25,000 for the street department payroll.

From entitlement nine funds, the budget sets up $23,282 for a new roof on the city hall, while under entitlement ten a sum of $16,000 is provided for a new city hall boiler.

The entitlement ten fund also provides $60,000 for payment of $60,000 to pay for the disposal of sludge from the sewage treatment plant in the Chain of Rocks landfill, an item that was not in last year's budget.

Funds also are provided in virtually all of the entitlement fund periods for city payrolls, supplementing payments out of regular city funds.

Approval of the budget followed a 7 p.m. public hearing at which no one appeared Tuesday. There was no discussion during the hearing.

Trespasser Shots fired shoots gun at farmer

Granite City police are investigating two shooting incidents from early this morning, but say they injuries apparently were no further from either incident.

Opal Nelson, 2124 Lee Ave., reported at 12:10 a.m. today that someone had fired a shotgun through the front door of her home and pellets had bounced around the house, narrowly missing her and two young children.

Police found a pattern of holes about two and one-half feet in diameter through the door. The pellets went across the living room, into the kitchen and then bounced from walls and down the main hallway, shattering a wall lamp.

Evidence indicates the gunman walked into the front yard, near the door, to fire the shot. The pellets did not touch the door frame or front of the house, but contacted the door, police said.

They are attempting to determine if the shooting is related to an incident about five minutes earlier in Kirkpatrick Homes where a gun was discharged. Officers were working on reports on that incident at press-time and details were unavailable.

PAY LEVEE WORKERS

Most employees of the Metro-East Sanitary District will receive 75 percent of the pay due them for the last three to four weeks under a plan approved Wednesday by the district's board of commissioners. The Bank of Cahokia will advance 75 percent of the money owed to the employees until the district, which is broke, receives new tax funds.

When the bank has been repaid, plus a $15 service charge per employee, the other 25 percent of the employees' pay will be given when the board dismisses four more workers Wednesday, reducing the number still working to 40.

WARRANT SERVED

Dorey, 21, of 2801 Dale Ave., was arrested at 11:30 p.m. Monday and was issued a ticket for speeding (45 mph in a 30 mph zone) by officers at a computer check and found a warrant was on file for battery, so he was taken into custody. It is alleged he struck Frank Nolan, 17, of 2828 Denver St., near Stoppokette's Roller Ring in the 1000 block of Grand Boulevard May 2, after Nolan said something to Coryell's wife.

CUTS POWER LINE

A backhoe working on a construction site behind the Food Shop, 3200 Maryville Road, apparently cut through an underground electrical cable at 1 p.m. Monday, cutting off power to the 64-unit Parkway Apartments and starting a small fire. The power was restored after several hours. Granite City firemen extinguished the small fire.

Madison girl raped by men

Madison police are investigating rape of an 18-year-old Madison girl reported at 11:56 p.m. Monday.

The girl was walking on Madison Avenue toward the Madison Burger Chef from Fourth Street when she was told to get into a vehicle by two men.

The incident took place in a wooded area north of the Merchants Bridge highway. Madison police are looking for a 19-year-old male and 35 years of age with brown hair.

"But they chose Granite City Steel for their major expansion and, hopefully, through the work we do on this job, they'll continue to expand in our area."

A day to forget

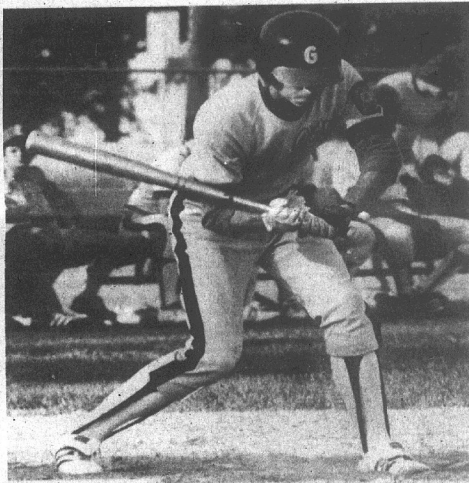

GRANITE CITY — Tuesday was a day to forget if you are a granite City American Legion baseball fan.

Not only did one Granite City Legion team fall — they both did. Tri-City Post 113 dropped a one-run decision to Belleville at home while Glen Carbon was drubbed in Alton.

It hasn't been a particularly good week for either club, even though Glen Carbon is still tied for the lead in its division.

There was a lot of baseball action Tuesday past ... but it was a day Granite Cityans would just as soon forget.

Jack Hartman returns to SIU at K-State helm

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

CARBONDALE — Jack Hartman is returning to Southern Illinois University-Carbondale.

No, Hartman, the former Saluki basketball coach and present mentor at Kansas State isn't coming back to take the reigns at SIU-C. But he will bring his K-State Jayhawks to the SIU Arena for a game with the Salukis Saturday, Dec. 15.

Hartman thus returns, not totally unlike MacArthur, to the school he helped put on the basketball map before he left some nine years ago. During his tenure at SIU-C, Hartman had a record of 14 wins, 64 losses, a 1969 National Invitational Tournament Championship in 1967, another NIT bid in 1969, an second place finishes to the University of Evansville in the NCAA Division II National championship game in 1965 and 1966. But the return of Hartman to the SIU Arena marks something besides the "coming home" of a former coach. It is yet another example of how far the SIU-C basketball program has come since he left. SIU is now a Division I school. It plays the "big-time" schools with regularity. In fact, it gave national runner-up Indiana State two of its toughest games of the season, falling by one and three points.

When Hartman left SIU, he was succeeded by the late Paul Lambert. The two talked many times about trying to schedule K-State and DSU, but it could not be worked out. Then Hartman found out that SIU had an open date next season in December and gave Saluki coach Joe Gottfried a call. The result was a two-year agreement between the two schools. "We have a two year agreement, with Southern Illinois coming to our place the following year," Hartman told the Press-Record. "The date hasn't yet been determined."

"I look forward to coming back to SIU, even though I realize how tough it is for visitors to win at the Arena," Hartman said. "The SIU-C campus holds many memories for him — most of them good ones. "We had eight positive years at Southern," he said. "The fans in Southern Illinois are great. We gave them some great basketball and they gave us some great support."

Hartman has also scheduled Lenoirville and Arkansas, as well as Indiana for the following season and Illinois the next. "But the game December in Carbondale, Ill. means more to him than any of those."

But this marks the first time that SIU-C has been "out-done" by its sister school in the sport of basketball. SIU-Edwardsville traveled the Manhattan, Kansas last season for a game with Kansas State. The result was a 91-66 K-State victory, but the game really wasn't that much of a runaway. The K-State Wildcats led the Cougars of SIU-E at halftime by only 44-34. Kell Peebles helped the SIU-E cause with 16 points. Which brings me to the point of all this: College basketball in this area is making great strides. Both at SIU-Carbondale and at SIU-Edwardsville.

SIU-C has come a long way in its pursuit of the NCAA Division I National Title. Three years ago, the Salukis went to the playoffs and came within one game of making it to the "Final Four."

SIU-E is still struggling, but the future is bright for the Cougars. They have hope for a gymnasium of their very own (on campus and everything!). And head coach Jim Dudley has recruited some fine high school prospects to blend with his returnees.

The Salukis of SIU-Carbondale have added some "horses" to their schedule. But even if they fall on their faces a few times, that's OK.

Everybody falls a few times while they learn to walk.

All can aid mankind, new dentists are told

People who contribute the most are not necessarily at the top of their class, U.S. Rep. Paul Simon told dental graduates at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Saturday. Speaking first to those in the fifth graduating class of the School of Dental Medicine (SDS) "who barely made it," he told of a student named Carl Sandburg who flunked English, a student named Winston Churchill who never passed foreign language, and a student named Franklin Roosevelt who never earned his law degree.

"I am not suggesting it is important not to strive," he said, glancing at the SDS faculty and administrators surrounding him in Meridian Ballroom, "but everyone has a tremendous potential for making a contribution."

He asked the 47 graduates, who received the doctor of dental surgery degree, to make their contributions not only as dentists but as citizens of the world.

The congressman said when he was traveling in a developing nation, he talked through an interpreter to a group of school age children, only half of whom were actually in school. "It cost $1.25 a month to go to school and the family didn't have the money," he learned from one boy who couldn't go.

"I don't know how his future ties into yours," Simon told the graduates, "but it does and you have to recognize it."

Simon advised the graduates to be good dentists but also to help others, to broaden themselves, to help the profession and to look beyond their own community.

"One of the things I learned is that happiness is not an addition process," he said. "It is a subtraction process." He said the campus and the opportunity for their dental education were here because of a willingness of others to help not themselves, but all people. "That's what we want from you."

The former newspaper editor, who spent 14 years in the Illinois General Assembly representing the local community, served as lieutenant governor of Illinois. He currently represents the 24th Congressional district in the U.S. House.

"Simon warned the graduates to continue to read and to be concerned. 'You will ultimately serve your patients better if you do not let the diploma become your intellectual death certificate.'"

Simon noted "the amazing progress" the dental profession has made since he began life as the son of missionaries returning from China, especially in relieving pain.

But he said he still meets people who come up and say, "Paul, please excuse my appearance, but I can't afford false teeth."

The dental profession is out doing what it could and should do, he told the graduates, "but your profession and your government need to get together and come up with some good solid answers to those problems."

Cong. Simon was included by Dean Henry M. Cherrick, who disregarded his prepared remarks to tell the audience he has had only one year to evaluate the class but "they are among the best trained and the most highly qualified" of any dental school graduates in the nation.

Responding for the class of 1979, Wilbert H. Milligan said the graduates survived daily frustrations of the smell of melting plastic and the questions of any patients asking if it is the "first time" they have done something to earn their degree.

The class has seen three deans, and a change from a three-year to a four-year program.

Simon said he had to take an active role in improving the school and aiding in the education of subsequent classes. Milligan said.

Before conferring the degrees, SUE President Kenneth Shaw reminded the graduates that "the key to the profession of dentistry, as in any profession, is service. The highest calling is to be of service to other human beings," he said.

After presentation of the diplomas and hoods, the class received a spontaneous standing ovation.

Prison terms for two

Lonnie Jones, 25, East St. Louis, has been sentenced to serve six years in prison and Jimmie L. Williams, 30, East St. Louis, has been sentenced to four years in prison after they pleaded guilty to charges related to the molesting of two girls, ages 14 and 17, in their home in the 1000 block of Logan Street in the early morning hours of Dec. 19, 1978.

Sentence for Jones was pronounced by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo to serve four years in prison after he pleaded guilty to aggravated kidnapping and armed violence. Charges of rape, unlawful restraint, deviate sexual assault and armed violence were dismissed.

Williams pleaded guilty to aggravated kidnapping and taking indecent liberties with a child. Charges of armed violence, unlawful restraint, rape and deviate sexual assault were dismissed.

An investigation by Venice police developed information which led to the two being arrested in East St. Louis.

SPECIAL MUSIC
Bethel Chapel, 25th Street and Ohio Avenue will feature special music by the "Singing Riches Family" of Blanchard, Okla. at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday. The services are open to the public. The Rev. Clifton Galther is the pastor.

Sentenced for burglary

Norman E. Galbraith, 30, of 2238 Delmar Ave., has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo to serve four years in prison after Galbraith pleaded guilty to burglary.

He was charged with burglarizing the Wayside Tavern building, 2160 Washington Ave., March 8, Police, responding to a silent burglar alarm, alleged finding two men inside the building and arrested both. Galbraith allegedly was found hiding in a hole in the staircase too small for him to get through and he was forced to lie on the floor at gunpoint while other officers used another entrance to approach and arrest him, it was reported.

Matthew 21:21 "...Jesus said: 'Have faith, and doubt not...'

Faith is so simple, yet it can move mountains for us. Faith itself is no miracle however. There are definite steps to obtain more faith than you presently possess.

You may increase faith by daily prayer. Start every morning with prayer. Commit your day, and your life, to God and see how your faith begins to grow.

Read the Bible every day. The Bible is God's Word. Through the Bible, God speaks to you. This will definitely increase your faith.

Do your utmost to obey the teachings of Christ. Remember, to God obedience is better than sacrifice.

Doubt not. That is, simply trust God. Trust Him for every detail of your life. Trust Him daily. Your faith is increasing.

Have faith in God. Today.

Extension tuition up

A $1 increase in the extension tuition rate charged by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was approved last week by the SIU Board of Trustees. The rate will be increased to $11 per quarter hour of credit from the current rate of $10, effective in the fall quarter. University officials said the extension tuition rate was inadvertently omitted from a tuition increase proposal approved by the Board at the March 8 meeting.

They said the increase in the extension tuition rate is necessary to meet the income fund generation recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The increase, the first in the extension tuition rate since 1971, complies with IBHE guidelines.

State will release planning funds for SIUE building soon

The second and third phase of the planning money for the multi-purpose facility at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be released soon, according to Director Robert Mandeville of the Bureau of the Budget, Senator Sam M. Vadala, D-Edwardsville, has announced.

Phase two will be released around the middle of July and phase three in mid October. This schedule for the release of funds will permit the planning for the facility to be completed by July 1, 1980, which is within the time frame established by the University for the development of the facility. Senator Vadala noted that the Multi-Purpose bill, SB 400, will not be pressed before the senate this year, but instead will be brought up again next year. He indicated that since the construction drawings could not be completed this fiscal year it is prudent to wait until next year for the construction part of the project to be approved.

Senator Vadala noted that there was strong support from the president of the senate, Senator Philip Rock, and from Chairman of Appropriation I Committee, Senator Howard Carroll, for the project.

"It is seen by the leadership in the senate and house as one of the top capital priorities for the FY 80 legislative session," Senator Vadala stated.

"I am delighted that the governor's office continues to express support for this project and the release of these two phases of the planning money will be an unequivocal indication that they are putting their actions behind their words." "The commitment from the Democratic leadership will help us insure that when the construction drawings are completed we can immediately move into the actual construction phase," Vadala concluded.

Dog obedience class at YMCA

An eight-week dog obedience class for novice dog handlers will begin Tuesday, June 26, at the Tri-City Area YMCA. The first meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. All others begin at 7 p.m. and will meet for one hour.

Don Guldge of Granite City will instruct the class, which is structured to teach basic commands. Guldge has studied basic and advanced dog obedience and has bred and trained guard dogs.

Registration for the class can be made by calling the YMCA at 876-7200. The fee for Y members is $6 and $12 for non-members. Those enrolling in the course are asked to attend the first week without their dogs. Specific rules and handler's information will be given out at this session.

Busy month for circuit court

The Third Judicial Court of Madison and Bond counties cleared 4,815 cases during May, well above the average number of cases cleared monthly, according to a report issued by the Illinois Supreme Court this week.

"This was an excessive month for both the filing of and terminating of cases. The Chief Judge Moses W. Harrison said he was well pleased with the report," Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell, commented after reviewing the Supreme Court's figures on operations of the Third Judicial Circuit during the month.

Terminations included 75 large law cases requiring jury trials for sums over $15,000; 55 felony cases, 577 small claims cases and 2,824 traffic cases.

Unfortunately, 5,669 cases were filed during the month, mostly in May while 10 were given probation with fines or periodic imprisonment, and 13 received probation with fines or discretionary conditions.

In the felony division, 21 persons were sentenced to prison in May while 10 were given probation with fines or periodic imprisonment, and 13 received probation with fines or discretionary conditions.

Thirty-nine persons pleaded guilty to felonies during the month while five were convicted by juries. Eleven felony charges were dismissed on the motion of the state while 17 cases were reduced from felonies to misdemeanors, according to the report.

The court also granted 138 judgments of marriage judgments last month, it was judged.

Experimental fine system at SIUE library

An experimental program in the levying of fines at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's Lovejoy Library began Monday and will continue through Sept. 23.

According to John Druke, head of the circulation department at the library, fines will not be charged for three-week material until an item is 31 days overdue, at which time the borrower will be billed for replacement of that item, plus a $4.85 late fee.

"If the item is returned after 31 days, the borrower will be credited for replacement cost, but will still be required to pay the $4.85 fine," Druke said.

"As in the present system, any bills unpaid after 30 days will be placed on accounts receivable. Material will continue to be subject to present recall procedures," Druke added.

RESIDENCE ENTERED
Albert Wells Sr., 1303 Madison Ave., Madison, discovered at 4 p.m. Monday his residence had been entered. Items reported stolen include a 19-inch Zenith black and white television, 20-inch fan, AM-FM radio and several items of clothing.

VIEW FROM THE STARS

Some shape-up programs of the stars

By ANNE THAYER

Hanging around somewhere in the minds of most of us, are idealized portraits of how we should look. In fact we could look like our dreams if we minimized calorie intake and maximized exercise.

However, just getting into shape to dazzle the gawkers at beach, backyard pool, or ole swimmin' hole isn't as strong a motivation for most of us as it's cracked up to be. And that includes the stars.

What does, then, move them to sleep themselves down, or, occasionally, build themselves up, as the case may be?

The answer is money, jobs. Casting directors, too, have images of how performers should look. And the smart performers don't wait to be told it's shape-up time.

One of the most successful self-rehabilitating jobs was Shirley MacLaine's. The gamine who started her career as a dancer on stage in "Pajama Game," and went on to become acclaimed as a serious actress, looked at herself when she passed her 38th birthday, didn't like what the mirror was telling, and vowed to be better by 40.

Less than a year later, she had transformed herself into a top nightclub attraction in Las Vegas. And her club act became the basis for the TV specials that have won her Emmy Awards and high ratings. Also the challenge to travel her act... with her most recent special having been taped in Paris.

To capsuleize: Shirley dieted-off ("sensible eating and no booze") 30 pounds. Then she undertook what for most of us would be an unsensibly rigorous exercise program: gymnastics, tap dancing, yoga and ballet. The ballet was the hardest.

"For the first month, I danced so much I could barely walk," she recalls. But the dividend—in addition to all that applause, and all those lovely dollars—was a return of the non-stop energy that lets Ms. MacLaine know she's doing something right.

Even when a role would let an actor slouch and slump, a smart actor keeps the self and the role separate. An example of the smart ones? Howard Hesseman who plays the seedy d.j. Dr. Johnny Fever in CBS's "WKRP in Cincinnati."

"It's hard to work out when you're in a series... but I try to swim three-quarters of a mile every day," he says.

Robby Benson, who rarely has a free day, much less a vacation, says he would like to work-out more. But bicycling around on errands, and to visit his parents who live 20 minutes away, helps.

"So does basketball, when I can find the time. No, I don't belong to a team. I just join pickup games, some in school yards, whenever I can."

But "lean" isn't the look that works for everybody. And Lou Ferrigno wouldn't have the job he has today if he were not a mass of bulging muscles.

For in the storied life of CBS's "The Incredible Hulk," Lou is the primitive self that bursts forth from David Banner (played by slim, suave Bill Bixby) when the going gets rough stuff.

Lou reminds us that, "Richard Keogh had the part first. But at 7 feet he was too tall, and the tall guys don't have the build. I'm 6-feet-4 and what they were looking for."

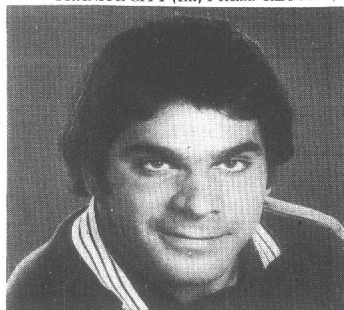

Lou, a former Mr. America and Mr. Universe, has a 59 inch chest and 22 and one-half inch biceps.

He started body building, pulling weights at 15,

"because I wanted to get into shape to be the best in some sport."

Then the goal changed, with body building getting his main efforts. Now, gym three times a week maintains the muscle tone.

But, he adds, "Nutrition is important, too. Later on I may become a vegetarian, but right now to keep up, I need a lot of protein."

LOU FERRIGNO: "The tall guys don't have the build."

The Lighter Side

What not to do when returning home

One should never spend one's first day home from a hospital alone. Some people tend to get a bit wild, and I went nuts.

I came home that day to find that my happy home had been lived in by gypsies while I was away, or at least it looked that way.

Stuff. Piles and piles of stuff had turned my sometimes neat little house into a disaster area. I couldn't STAND it! I had to straighten it up.

My promise to my doctor to be cool and rest came creeping into my mind, but what he didn't know wouldn't hurt him. Besides, I was just going to pick up a little and then go straight to bed.

I began innocently enough, picking up 10 day old newspapers and mail that had been gathering for some time. Then I noticed the ton of dishes.

"I won't do those," I told myself. But then I got to thinking how nice the kitchen would look if I cleaned it up a bit. My suitcase was on the washer. "I'll do that later," I said to myself.

My plants were all dying of thirst and a layer of dust 1/4 of an inch thick covered everything. I fooled around with the plants as I told myself that the dust could wait.

Some people are very good at ignoring a little clutter and most of the time I am as good as anybody. But I really wanted a nice clean place to rest. I did the dishes.

I walked past the suitcase and headed for my bedroom. The sheets hadn't been changed since I left. I wasn't about to lay my sanitized, medicated body down there. I stripped the bed and put on fresh sheets. Now I could rest.

As I looked around the bedroom, I decided that a little dusting would make the room look a lot better. Since I planned to spend most of the weekend there, I figured I might as well straighten it up a bit.

Things just kind of went along this way for the next several hours. I would do a bit here and a bit there, telling myself that I would just do a little more, and then rest.

About 8 o'clock that night I sat down, having somehow managed to clean the entire house, do all of the laundry and thoroughly exhaust myself.

With no one at home to slow me down, I had turned into a whirlwind, a virtual cleaning machine.

A dumb thing to do, and I paid for it. I did spend most of the weekend in bed, not quietly recovering from my illness, but dead to the world.

Some people just never learn.

TV People

Although Robert Ito, co-star of NBC's "Quincy," set out to be a dancer, he found his niche in acting with the help of such assets as good looks, discipline and some advice from the late Larry Blyden.

Ito, who at age 5 became interested in dance following a first prize finish in an amateur talent contest, was a serious student. The tough discipline of his dance lessons resulted in 10 years with the National Ballet of Canada, followed by four seasons as a dancer with the Canadian Broadcasting Company.

From Canada, Ito landed a feature role in the Broadway hit, "Flower Drum Song." He was also part of the original cast of "What Makes Sammy Run." It was there that Ito was befriended by Blyden, who suggested that he pursue a full-time career as an actor.

In 1965, Ito moved to Los Angeles, where he won roles in such television series as "Kojak," "The Six Million Dollar Man" and "Kung Fu." He later co-starred in such movies as "Midway," and "Rollerball" and in such TV movies as "Men of the Dragon" and "Helter Skelter."

Born in Vancouver, B.C., on July 2, Ito is married and has two children, Jennifer, 18, and Thomas, 15. They reside in Los Angeles.

Arts renaissance here accelerating

An acceleration of interest in the arts is being experienced at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"During the '50s and '60s, the emphasis was on the sciences and studies that would ease students into the job market," David Huntley, director of the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums at SIUE, said. "Now that society has more leisure time, people are turning back to the arts to fill the void."

Huntley said some students have the idea they are attending college for the sole purpose of learning how to make a living. But in his opinion, "They are going to college to learn, and arts are an important part of that learning experience."

Established two years ago to coordinate all the cultural activities of an educational nature, the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums' responsibilities have expanded to embrace the development and maintenance of art, architectural and anthropology collections and exhibits at the university.

Last year, the university sponsored a distinguished artist series which included guest lecturers and performers considered artists in all the performing and fine arts. The decision to bring more artists to the campus was made to augment the existing educational programs in the arts and to provide cultural enrichment for the general public, Huntley said. There are many times when the fine arts programming for the student and community resident draws only a fine line between classroom and audience, and that's the way Huntley wants it.

At the same time a student is learning more about his or her major from a professional, the man on the street is getting a rare chance to see artists at work from a unique vantage point.

"One of our biggest problems is making people of campus aware of what the University has to offer them, both from our own talented people and the guests we bring to the campus," Huntley said.

Because they attract small audiences, events relating to the arts seldom pay their own way. However, Huntley does not see this as a significant problem. "There is no difference between subsidizing highways and art. Both are essential to the well-being of the people," he believes.

Last year, the series included a variety of guest lecturers and performers. One of five such festivals held at different locations in the state, the festival attracted more than 900 handicapped youngsters, along with 300 accompanying adults, to the second day of events.

Visiting artists for the two-day ornamental ironworkers symposium included a prominent English blacksmith, blacksmiths from Arizona, Wisconsin and have the opportunity to rub elbows with a master artist in their specialization. And in most instances the public is right there, too, sharing in the exhibitions and demonstrations.

Other arts-related activities sponsored by the university last year included: a very special arts festival for handicapped children; exhibitions of artwork by area school children, high school students and SIUE alumni; a jazz festival; a ceramics invitational; and an ornamental ironworkers exhibition and symposium.

The first day of the "very special arts festival" served as an in-service experience for teachers working with handicapped children. Consultants in all areas of the arts were on the program, including experts in the art of storytelling and puppetry, teaching music to the handicapped, and working with the hearing impaired and their parents, as well as a children's book author, art and movement therapists, and a director of a summer camp for the handicapped.

The Cultural Arts and University Museums director said, "Everything from a Rembrandt to artwork created by the latest candidates for our master of fine arts degree will be items and artifacts from the musical instrument collection, Sullivan or pottery collection, drawing collection, quilts from the Folklore Archive, sheet music from the Ragtime and Jazz Archive, and objects from an anthropology collection as well as other grants to the university.

Zoning board acts on eight requests

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended that a request for commercial zoning near Pontoon Beach be denied, but has given its endorsement to plans to build a new animal shelter, to divide a parcel of property and for the placement of five mobile homes.

The zoning board, which makes recommendations to the Madison County Board, has recommended that the County Board at its June 20 meeting deny permission to Fred and Sharon Hartline to rezone property at 4215 Madison Street, just off Pontoon Road, in Nameoki Township, to rezone their property from R-3 residential to B-3 highway business zoning.

The zoning group gave its endorsement to a request from Edward and Mary Young for a special use permit to divide an existing tract of land in Poag, across from the old schoolhouse and next to the railroad tracks into two parcels.

The property is in an agricultural district of Chouteau Township.

Also endorsed is the request of the Association for the Protection of Animals, Inc., for a special use permit to build and operate an animal pound and shelter off Old Alton Road west of Marville Road, in an M-3 heavy industrial district of Chouteau Township.

The zoning board is recommending that special use permits be granted to the following persons for the placements of mobile homes for up to five years: Jerry Maeras to continue the placement north of Arlington Heights, Nameoki Township, while a permanent residence is constructed; Bernard and Evelyn Harris to place a unit at the end of Harrison Street near Eagle Park Acres, and Darwin and Doris Evans to continue the placement of a unit near the dog kennels on Chouteau Island in Chouteau Township.

All three are granted for occupancy by the families of the applicants only.

Also endorsed is the request of Wanda Lane and Wanda Sheriff to place a mobile home in an R-4 single-family residential district of Chouteau Township, at a location not specified in the zoning board report, for the duration of the lifetime of Wanda Sheriff and for her sole occupancy.

The other mobile home placement request endorsed by the board is for Gerald Sugg to place a unit on Arlington Heights Road, in Nameoki Township, for up to 18 months and for the occupancy of the Gerald Sugg family.

A petition from Hazella Baskett for a special use permit to place a mobile home on Terry Street in Eagle Park Acres, Venice Township, has been cancelled due to failure of the applicant to complete the requirements for the public hearing.

Two from here graduate at Knox college

Robert Charles Holshouser, 2231 Pontoon Park, and Gene Steven Logas, 6 Fairway Estates, were among approximately 220 students graduating at the 1979 commencement exercises at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

The ceremonies were held on the lawn of Knox's historic Old Main, sole remaining site of an 1858 Lincoln-Douglas debate. The Rev. Jesse Jackson, national president of Operation Push, gave the commencement address.

Gov. President E. Imman Fox presented Rev. Jackson with an honorary doctor of laws degree. M. Max Goodrich, a 1912 Knox graduate, was awarded an honorary master of fine arts degree.

Found in 1837, Knox is a private, coeducational liberal arts college with an enrollment of 1,000.

VANDALIZE HONDA PARKED IN YARD

John Kellick, 70 State St., arrived home at 4 a.m. Sunday to find a vandal had damaged his 1973 Honda which was parked in the yard.

The machine's seat and sissy bar had been cut and the vandal also had cut the brake lines and spark plug wires.

GC crimes show 11% decline during May

Major crimes in Granite City were down 11 percent in May, as compared to the same month of 1978, according to a monthly report released by the Granite City Police Department. The report shows there were 191 major crimes in the city during last month, down from 215 in May 1978. Categories showing declines were burglary, down 51 percent (from 55 in May of 1978 to 27 last month); auto burglary, down seven percent (from 26 to 24); auto theft, down 13 percent (from 17 to 15); and robbery, down 30 percent (from three to zero).

Increases were shown in two categories. Assaults rose 23 percent, from 26 in May last year to 32 last month, and larceny cases increased five percent in the same period, from 88 to 93. The number of cases cleared by arrest rose 17 percent from May 1978 to last month, rising from 140 to 164, including a 20 percent increase in major crimes cleared by arrest (from 50 to 60). Assault cases cleared by arrest increased 64 percent, from 17 to 28, and auto-burglary cases which ended in arrest were up 200 percent, from one to three.

Traffic arrests last month were 17 percent lower than the same month last year (from 376 to 313), but traffic arrests for the first five months of this year are only one percent lower than the same period of last year (from 1,867 to 1,845 this far this year).

Other arrests are up 35 percent from the first five months of 1978, with 688 arrests through May 1979, as compared to 494 in the same period last year. There were a total of 2,313 arrests, including traffic, during the first five months of 1979, up seven percent from the 2,161 in the same period last year. Total charges against those arrested show a 10 percent increase over the first five months of 1978. Card of Thanks 32
IN LOVING MEMORY of my mother, JESSIE WOOD. I want to thank all relatives, nieces, neighbors, friends and members of City Temple Church, Pastor Cope for his kindness and thoughtfulness in my time of need. May she be remembered like the roses she loved, that opens and blooms, then fades away. The clock of life is wound but once and no man has the power to tell just when the hands will stop at late or early hour, now is the only time you own. Live, love, toil with a will. Place no faith in tomorrow, for the clock may then be stilled. Daughter, Mrs. Leo (Helen) Durich. 31 6 21

IN LOVING MEMORY of STANLEY W. WOJCIK, June 23, 1978. He did no one a last farewell. Not even a goodbye. He was gone before we knew it. And only God knows why. They say time heals all sorrow. And helps us to forget. But time has only proved. How much we miss him yet. Our eyes shed many tears. God knows how much we miss him. And we throughout the years. Many a silent heartache often a lonely tear. Always beautiful memories to the one we loved so dear. Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren. Dear aunt and uncle and all who loved you and may God bless you. 31 6 21

IN LOVING MEMORY of WILLIAM A. MCAMISH SR. June 21, 1948. It's been said: Time will heal a broken heart. But to us this is not true. As our hearts were broken thirty-three years ago. When the one we loved was called away. God took him home. It was gone will. Within our hearts he lives still. His memory is as dear today. As in the hour he passed away. Sadly missed by The McAmish Family. 31 6 21
